Faith

It was precisely at 6 a. m. Saturday that Sallie Jeff Lucas was born.

At 7:30 her mother dressed and went to breakfast.

On Sunday morning, when Sallie Jeff was barely past 24 hours old, her mother and father took her to church, and Sunday afternoon they went for a 15-mile auto ride.

On Monday Sallie Jeff's mother did her housework and watched tenderly over her first born.

Medical science must marvel.

The explanation? "It is the knowledge of what God is to man," said the mother, Mrs. Jeff Lucas, 1109 College-ave., Fort Worth, Tex. "God is love, and as we trust there is no pain and no sorrow."

Faith! That's the answer. It is the foundations of all religions.

The faith that men move mountains robs childbirth of its terrors. When science has explained faith, it will have reached its ultimate. But science never will explain faith — for science is human, faith divine.

Power

DR. ARTHUR D. LITTLE, Boston, industrial chemist, says that plant life on earth receives from the sun and stores each year energy that has a heating power of 18,000,000,000 tons of coal. That's more coal than the world mines in 14 years.

Coal, as a source of power, is puny alongside the tremendous energy of the sun, which man eventually will harness to do his work.

Beggars

CHICAGO buries "French Sal," famous beggar, and after the funeral finds $100,000 hidden in her attic home.

Wealthy Montana copper operator, visiting Detroit, fell asleep in a chair in front of a hotel. He had on dark glasses. Many mistook him for a blind beggar. He woke up with 40 cents in his hat.

Cities have as many kind-hearted folks as small towns. Metropolitan cold-bloodedness is mostly on the surface. Folks are much the same everywhere. Human nature travels under many disguises, but it never changes.

Hatreds

AFTER a seven year ban on the French language, Berlin permits Chiopera, famous tenor, to sing the star role of "Faust" in French.

War-time hatreds and prejudices are slipping away gradually. If Europe could live in peace 100 years its countries might get along as amiably as Canada and the United States. That's the normal state of human beings, despite the theory of Crile, famous surgeon, that war is man's natural biological condition.

Criminal

CESARE DE ANGELIS, Italy's greatest criminal is dead. A ring-leader of the Camorra, he had a longer police record than any other Italian.

Despite his great wealth from blackmail, Tomasso died as a hermit without friends, penniless, living in a cave in a cemetery.

Detectives say no great criminal ever died rich. We pay penalties for most of our sins, right here on earth. Emerson, greatest American philosopher, was right about the law of compensation.

AT Big Rapids Michigan, Justice A. Dresscher rents a theatre and calls a mass meeting of mothers. He will "read the riot act to them."

Dresscher is alarmed at the large number of secret marriages he has been forced to perform lately. He blames mothers for the epidemic of immorality, and in most cases he is right. The tragedy of the neglected child, allowed to run the streets and dance the contortions that originate in Buneos Ayres dives, is what is undermining home life in American cities.

Dyes

AMERICAN dye manufacturers, alarmed at complaints about their products, hold a meeting in New York. It develops that millions of dollars worth of clothing is being thrown back on the manufacturers because the colors don't hold.

One of the dye makers hints that complaints are a new form of German propaganda, which is nonsense.

Dyers blame the dyes. The makers blame the dyers for not using enough dye. Regardless of responsibility, something's clearly wrong. Consumers want no protective tariff to protect inferiority— provided that inferiority is definitely established.

MAX STRAUS, ocean steamship man, says an English bank got this letter from a customer:

"For the following reasons I regret being unable to reduce my overdraft. I have been held up, held down, sandbagged, walked on, sat upon, flattened out, and squeezed by our income tax, the super tax, the excess profits tax, war loans, war bonds, war savings certificates, the automobile tax and by every society and organization that the inventive mind of man can invent to extract what I may or may not have in my possession."

It should be easy to get the nations together on disarmament. They all seem to have the same problems.

JOBLESS OF CITY CUT 8,000

Kansas City Solves Problem By Construction Work.

BUSINESS ALSO ON JUMP

Improvement in Last 60 Days Worked, Spillane Told.

(BY RICHARD SPILLANE)

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 19—Kansas City is doing today and has done in the last year and a half a greater amount of construction work proportionately than perhaps any other city of its size in America. This work is widespread covering municipal, industrial and housing structures and it probably explains the reduction of unemployed from 21,200 in January for the whole metropolitan district to 13,000 today.

Kansas Citians declare they have not felt the depression so much as has the east. This is only because the construction work has been an offset.

* * *

Analysis shows that in merchandising the same general conditions prevail here as in the eastern cities only not to so marked a degree. Despite the large amount of new residential building, the housing shortage is acute. Furniture storage warehouses are crowded with household goods while many families are forced to live in cramped quarters. Rents are high, very high, and employers, while insisting that labor has not been liquidated, declare it cannot bear its share of the cut until rents are reduced. The anomaly of much dwelling construction and much crowding can be explained only by the belief that the city is growing faster than the authorities appreciate. While warehouses have much household furniture in them they are bare of general merchandise. Stocks of goods in department stores and general supply houses are scant.

* * *

About 300 men active in the city's affairs met your correspondent at the Hotel Baltimore and later 15 gentlemen, representatives of the major lines of business, gave in detail reports as to the conditions in their fields.

Among these were E. O Faeth, wholesale hardware, H. F. Hayes, manager Armour & Co., C. C. Peters, general manager Emery Bird and Thayer department store, C. J. Schmelzer, largest sporting goods dealer west of the Mississippi, W. S. Dickey, clay products and newspaper proprietor, G. L. Jennings, lumber, J. C. Lester, president Ridenour Baker Grocer Co. Also there were reports made by representativs of the railroads, the interurbans and local traction companies, bankers, real estate men and others.

* * *

It must be understood that such figures as are given here apply to metropolitan Kansas City and not to the portion of the municipality in Missouri.

Kansas City is a young whale. It is voracious in its business appetite. Its factory output approximates $2,000,000 a day. In this line packing house products are pre-eminent, making up more than two-fifths of the total but there is a big output of dairy products, confectionery, flour and grist mill articles, crude and refined oil, soaps and chemicals, automobile supplies together with iron and steel products, mill and cabinet work, steel metal goods (particularly tanks and barrels) paper boxes, bags, tents, awnings, etc.

The jobbing business, spreading as it does over a wide territory, is big. Last year it reached $882,000,000. Grain and livestock play a big part in shaping the city's business. Millions of cattle, calves, sheep and hogs pour thru this gate each year to market while the receipts of grain approximate 100,000,000 bushels.

* * *

One of the things on which nearly all the representatives of large business agreed was that there had been a noticeable improvement in the last 60 days and particularly the last 30 days. This did not apply to all lines but the large majority. There was general agreement that the costs of doing business were too high and must be reduced, that workers were more efficient; that the costs of transportation were throttling and that bulk commodities could not move freely until railroad rates were adjusted. Fuel, labor and transportation had to bear their share of liquidation before conditions could be healthy but despite the handicaps of their heavy costs today there was a steady and increasing improvement all along the line.

* * *

Kansas City needs lower rates to the seaboard, it was declared. It wants the rivers made navigable to the fullest degree and it wants canalization prospects that are worthy taken out of dusty pigeonholes and pushed to completion. It wants cheaper and better transportation so that the products of the west can get to market without excessive cost to the consumer. It wants the nation to do a larger business on a smaller cost of distribution. It wants America to realize that the marketing expense has been atrociously high in wholesale and retail and it must be reduced. It wants

ARBUCKLE'S WIFE REACHES FRISCO

"Give Him Square Deal," She Says in Statement.

MAKES APPEAL TO PUBLIC

Startling Developments Promised In Liquor Probe.

SAN FRANCISCO—(By Associated Press)—Mrs Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle (Minta Durfee) arrived in San Francisco early today from New York to asist in the defense of her actor husband against murder charges preferred agianst him for the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, film actress.

Miss Rappe is declared to have died following injuries at a party staged in Arbuckle's suite at the Hotel St. Francis here early in September.

Charles Brennan and Milton Cohen, attorneys for the film star, met Mrs. Arbuckle at Sacremento and denied her to all interviewers.

WIFE'S STATEMENT

Mrs. Arbuckle in lieu of being interviewed gave out a statement in which she asked the people of San Francisco to be "fair" with her husband and to give him a square deal.

"I know and his friends know, that he is innocent," the statement said.

The statement of the comedian's wife declared that only one side of the case had been made known to the public and expressed belief that when the entire story had been unfolded, "my husband will be completely exonerated and his good name thorcly cleared and that he again will take his place in the hearts of the American people."

Mrs. Arbuckle was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Flora Durfee, of Los Angeles.

The Arbuckle's have been separated for five years, according to friends, she residing in New York and her husband living in Los Angeles.

LIQUOR PROBE

Federal indictments under the prohibition laws in connection with the party staged by Arbuckle will not be asked tonight, as intended, Robert H. McCormack, first assistant to the United States attorney general, announced today. McCormack said he had decided upon delay because he expected "startling new developments."

McCormack is conducting an exhaustive investigation into the source of the liquor supply alleged to have been consumed at the Arbuckle party, the outcome of which resulted in charges of murder against Arbuckle for the death of Miss Virginia Rappe, film actress.

Belief that his investigation will unearth a system of liquor smuggling from Mexico to San Francisco and Los Angeles was expresed by McCormack. Examination of persons at Los Angeles who may be able to divulge information concerning the party liquor is being continued, he said.

WIFE WINS OUT IN STOKES CASE

Millionaire Denied Divorce on Sensational Complaint.

HIS MATE GRANTED DECREE

Alimony Question Not Settled in Decision.

NEW YORK— (By United Press)—W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire hotel man, was refused a divorce today from Helen Elwood Stokes.

The court, however, granted Mrs. Stokes an interlocutory decree on her counter-complaint.

The question of alimony was not settled in the decision handed down by Justice Finch.

Stokes' divorce action has been under consideration in the supreme court since the taking of testimony was finished, several months ago. The case was one of the most sensational in the history of the New York courts.

SENSATIONAL CHARGES

Stokes, owner of several big hotels, demanded a divorce, naming a number of co-respondents. He produced witnesses to swear that Mrs. Stokes had been familiar with a number of men.

The wife, in her defense, declared that Stokes' charges were a "frame-up" and on her part alleged that the millionaire was unduly familiar with many women.

In his suit, Stokes alleged that Mrs. Stokes, a Denver, Colo., girl, had committed misconduct with his own son (her step-son) and also with Roland Miller, a step-brother, Harold Billig, a cousin, George Shroeter, and other persons.

SWEEPING DENIAL

Mrs. Stokes made a sweeping denial of all these charges and produced the alleged co-respondents who themselves flatly denied that they had had improper relations with her.

She declared her husband had plotted to divorce her, force her to surrender her dower rights and obtain custody of their two children.

Mrs. Stokes also declared that her husband admitted he had had improper relations with other women. Stokes was accused by her of slapping and pinching her.

CRISENBERRY HEARING SET FOR LATE MONDAY

Because of the absence from the city of his attorney, Melvin C. Light, Crisenberry at noon Monday sought to obtain a postponement of the hearing until Tuesday morning.

Dorris refused his request and stated that under no circumstances would it be postponed. The hearing will be held at police headquarters.

BOMBERS TAKEN IN CHICAGO BATTLE

Five Men Caught in Act of Dynamiting Shop.

CIRCLED BY 40 DETECTIVES

Huge Stock Seized at Secret Explosive Plant.

CHICAGO—(By Associated Press)—Fourteen hundred sticks of dynamite, three inches in diameter and ten inches long, and 100 sticks of T. N. T., were seized today by police following the capture of five dynamiters in the act of bombing a shoe repair shop.

One of the prisoners was shot in the side by police, who had surrounded the shop for ten hours following a mysterious tip that it was to be bombed.

Richard Burke, 23 years old, the wounded man, was carrying the bomb when the five approached the shoe shop, after parking a stolen automobile two blocks away.

BOMBERS SURROUNDED

Forty detectives hidden in neighboring buildings surrounded the bombers and ordered them to surrender. Instead Burke hurled the bomb and the explosion tore the entire front out of the store, threw David Krenan, the owner, and his family from their beds upstairs and broke windows for blocks around.

As Burke turned to flee Michael Hughes, chief of detectives, shot him in the side and the other four surrendered. They gave their names as Michael Bench, James Smith, John Barry and Charles Young. After questioning they said Burke, Smith Bary and Young all lived at a house on Kimbark-ave, in the southern part of the city. Search of the house disclosed the bomb making plant, explosives, and in the garage a second automobile was found.

SUPPLIED UNIONS

Burke, who is believed to dying, told the police he supplied bombs for several labor unions, and also the men to throw them. Police say he made a detailed statement of bomb outrages undertaken for the shoe repair men's and janitors' unions.

After questioning the prisoners, Chief Hughes said the arrests would clear up scores of bomb explosions during the last six months, and involve a number of union officials. An investigation is also under way to determine how Burke was able to obtain the stock of dynamite and T. N. T.

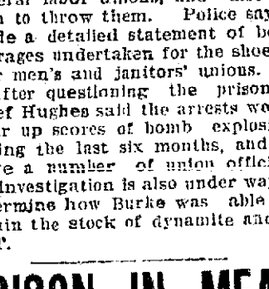

POISON IN MEAT

Sandwiches Made 150 Ill at Fair Probers Find.

COLUMBUS — (By Associated Press) — Meat sandwiches made several hours before they were served and kept in a warm place evidently caused the poisoning of more than 150 stock men at the Ohio state fair, Fred Berry, chief of the division of laboratories of the state department of health, says in a report submitted today to Director of Agriculture L. J. Taber, Director of Health H. H. Snively and R. M. Black, chief of the state bureau of dairy and foods.

Analysis of everything served at the stockmen's banquet showed no trace of anything that could have caused the poisoning, Mr. Berry said. General sanitary conditions were said to be good and in the absence of anything definite to which the trouble might be laid, the theory that the preserved meat was kept too warm and not served soon enough after being made into sandwiches is advanced as the cause of the poisoning.

Lima News Canvass of Business Conditions Thruout Country Shows Hundreds of Factories Are Resuming Operations and Trade in General on the Jump

Thousands of Formerly Unemployed Persons Start to Work This Week As Result of Revival—Amount of Freight Handled by Rails Steadily Increasing

Decided improvement in general business conditions is shown by the following reports, covering the more important basic industries.

These reports were received by The Lima News in a national survey of the trend of business.

Smoke began pouring from many long idle steel mills in Ohio this morning. One of the most active weeks in the industry in six months began today when plants in Warren, Niles and New Philadelphia resumed operations. Several thousand men will be re-employed. Seventy mills will be in operation again by the end of the week.

Six sheet mills of the Trumbull Steel Company, at Warren, started today and six others will be opened tomorrow, in addition to 16 tin mills. Six out of eight hot mills will begin operating at Western Reserve tomorrow.

Full operation will be resumed at Newton Falls, when the ten hot mills of the Newton Steel Company open tomorrow.

Twenty-six mills will become active in Niles, leaving only 16 plants still closed.

The American Sheet and Tin Plate Company at New Philadelphia opened three hot mills today and announcement was made that 800 men will be put to work in the mills at Dover, next week.

LIMA PLANTS

Lima manufacturers were more optimistic Monday than for weeks. Reports of opening up of plants elsewhere were taken as an indication that conditions are becoming better.

One plant, the Chalmers Pump & Manufacturing Co., went on capacity production Monday. Many orders have just been received, among them some from the Mexican government and a number from big industrial concerns of this country. More men probably will be added soon.

All other concerns reported increasing inquiries, which they said meant orders in the near future.

The Garford, thru E. A. Williams, said business is about the same, but indications are that there will be an increase in the demand for trucks soon.

At the Locomotive works conditions are unchanged, W. L. Reid said.

No change at the Ohio Steel was reported.

Prospects are bright, said C. L. Ackerman of Lima Sheet Metal Products Co.

WOOL

BOSTON.—New England woolen industry is operating at 97 per cent of capacity, after months of depression.

Massachusetts, which makes fourtenths of American woolen goods, is employing 10% workers to every 100 a year ago.

Wool consumption by New England mills is nearly as big as during the boom in the latter part of 1919, and the industry is close to capacity, says Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

Spring outlook excellent.

Extent of the textile boom is shown by the fact that the industry was only 41 per cent normal last January., against 97 now.

CLOTHING

NEW YORK.—Boom in New England textile mills is reflected by return of men's clothing manufacturing to the normal operation of 40 weeks a year.

Retail stocks of men's garments are reported low all over country. Rochester clothing factories making best record, Chicago second, New York third. Prices becoming stabilized.

Women, however, have started a mild buyers' strike, and condition of women's wear industry is very poor, about 60 per cent capacity. Dresses in most demand. Orders for coats and suits small.

STEEL

PITTSBURG.—In last two weeks, 15,000 steel workes in this district have returned to steady employment. At Homestead and Braddock, the U. S. Steel Corporation is working 75 per cent of its normal force four days a week and expects to resume on full time October 1.

Heavy railroad orders for steel and iron are on the books, awaiting straightening out of railroad finances. Tinplate and wire mills working full time, with months of orders ahead. In finished products sheets are very active. Prices at present trend upward.

SOFT COAL FAIR

WHEELING, W. Va.—Production by bituminous coal mines has fallen off somewhat in last fortnight. Total output of all American mines so far this year about 90,000,000 tons behind same period of 1920.

Trade in steam coal is gaining steadily, as factories re-open. Buying by consumers lags. Compared with pre-war, bituminous output is not discouraging. About 345 tons of soft coal being mined now for every 375 in same period 1914.

FREIGHT

WASHINGTON. — Amount of freight handled by railroads is steadily increasing. Thousands of cars of freight are being hauled for every nine cars moved during corresponding period of 1919.

Biggest gains in car loadings lately have been in merchandise, coal and miscellaneous freight.

Railroads are getting out of the hole. Class One roads are showing net profits of nearly five per cent a year.

Idle cars totaled 467,815 September 1, but are decreasing about 23,000 a week.

HARD COAL

READING, Pa.—No danger of a hard coal shortge this winter. Prices are apt to decline further in next 45 days.

Total production of anthracite coal by all American mines was 1,700,000 tons in week ended September 3. This was 676,000 tons more than in same week a year ago, when a strike at many collieries had suspended operation. But anthracite output is gaining steadily.

September output will total a fourth bigger than August.

SILK

NEW YORK.—Silk industry, which was first to have hard times, is on road to complete recovery. Manufacturers say this season will equal any pre-war year. Shorts skirt boomed stocking end of silk industry. Raw silk that sold for $18 a pound in wartime now is $7.

EXPORTS

WASHINGTON. — Exports from America $55,000,000 greater in August than in July. Imports declined.

Greatest shrinkage in foreign trade lately has been in iron and steel. Grain export tremendous, especially corn and wheat.

Tonnage of exports is gaining steadily.

SOUTHERN CROPS

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Higher cotton prices are sweeping business depression aside, all thru the south.

Many southern bankers and cotton interests predict a cotton famine next spring. That's improbable, due to big carry-over from the last crop. But it's possible, provided planters hold their new crop for high prices.

Crops of feed and food are so big this year in the south that the average southern farmer can get by for months without marketing his cotton.

FURNITURE GAINS

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—Furniture factories here are running 75 to 80 per cent capacity. Oders from road men indicate this production rate will hold up until January, when new furniture season opens.

Furniture manufacturers more optimistic than for many months. They say steady gain in building construction will make big market for furniture.

Furniture factory wages down 15 per cent from war peak.

AUTO OUTPUT

DETROIT.—Form auto factories continue running at capacity. Other makers are from 50 to 60 per cent normal.

Recent price reductions, precipitated by Ford cut, have stimulated orders.

Detroit, now making 38 out of every 50 autos produced in the country still has 173,000 unemployed.

CORN

DES MOINES.—Low price of corn this year will be partly counterbalanced by the big yield, estimated now at 3,100,000,000 bushels, against 2,446,088,000 bushels in 1913.

Farmers probably will average 25 to 28 cents a bushel or their corn crop. Exports huge.

WHEAT

CHICAGO.—Wheat is now being exported from the United States at a rate which, if sustained for a year, would take every bushel of the total crop.

September 1, wheat exports passed 15,000,000 bushels a week. Government's September forecast is for a crop of 754,000,000 bushels of spring and winter wheat, lowest

Didn't Say U. S. Shouldn't Have Merchant Marine, He Claims

DECLARES SENATOR WRONG

Glass Mistaken, The Admiral Asserts in Reply.

WASHINGTON — (By Associated Press) — Declaring that Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, was mistaken in quoting him as saying in a conversation in London that the United States ought not to undertake the development of a merchant marine of its own, Rear Admiral William S. Sims, in a letter to the National Merchant Marine Association made public here today, explained that what he did say was that "with the present restriction of our present shipping laws it would be very difficult for our country to develop a merchant marines commensurate with our needs."

The statement was in reply to a letter asking if the admiral had been correctly quoted by the Virginia senator in a recent speech in the senate.

SENATOR'S CHRGES

In his senate speech Senator Glass was quoted as saying:

"When I was abroad in 1918 Admiral Sims, much to my amazement, told me in London that he did not think that the United States ought to undertake the development of a merchant marine of its own. He thought that field of activity should be left to Great Britain, saying that the British were kinsmen, bone of our bone and blood of our blood, and might be relied on to come to our defense in case of war; that they were natural seamen and we know nothing about it. Besides, he added, it would require a great subsidy to conduct a merchant marine and the American people were inherently opposed to subsidies."

SIMS' REPLY

In his reply to the marine association, Admiral Sims wrote:

"I am not surprised that Senator Glass was much amazed if he understood me to state in London that the United States ought not to undertake the development of a merchant marine of its own."

ROTARY APPROVES ROAD PROGRAM

Allen-co Has Least State Maintained Highway Mileage.

Allen-co has the least mileage maintained by the state of any of the eight counties in the northwest division, according to a report which will be read before the Allen-co Good Roads council Monday evening by Joe Hartline, chairman.

Allen-co, one of the largest and by far the richest and most populous, has but 15.3 miles of state aid highways. Williams-co, next door to Michigan and Indiana, is the leading county in mileage, altho it has no large cities and is somewhat off the main line of travel. It has 69 miles of state aid roads.

The mileage of other counties is as follows: Defiance, 30.10; Fulton, 41.7; Henry, 24.61; Paulding, 28.10; Putnam, 24.16; Van Wert, 36.02.

The council will be urged to get out and use every possible means of changing this situation.

Resolutions endorsing the five year program of the Allen-co roads council were adopted by the Rotary club at Monday luncheon.

Court of appeals withheld decision in the case of George Donovan and Joe Willis, alleged members of the McGahan-Townsend bandit gang, argued Monday on error.

Donovan and Willis were convicted in common pleas court in June of highway robbery of the farm home of Samuel and Jacob Fett, near Bluffton.

The case was appealed on error. Counsel for the two are endeavoring to have the verdict set asid and new trials granted.

OHIO MILLS OPEN

since 1917, but about the same as in 1913.

Wheat crop apparently is going to bring a better price than grain traders expected a few months ago.

LUMBER

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Following a slack summer, sales of northwest and Pacific coast lumber in this district are gradually improving.

No boom has started in lumber, but mills report steady tho slow progress toward normal. This is reflected by recent stiffening of wholesale lumber prices, which now average 35 per cent below war peaks.

Export outlook bad. European markets glutted with American lumber.

SHOES

BOSTON.—New England boot and shoe factories are running 60 per cent capacity, with women's dress shoes at 80 per cent.

Order are small, for merchants are buying close to the market. General situation unchanged since March.

Despite lower production, employment in shoe industry is 85 per cent normal. Individuals on short time, to pass the work around.

Makers will attempt to stimulate men's buying by new styles.

FERTILIZER

COLUMBUS.—Sales of commercial fertilizer are 50 per cent normal. Farmers are not buying fertilizer this fall. Falling off in orderz is greatest in south.

Fertilizer industry expects 1922 to show a distinct pick-up, says Marshal A. Smith, president, Smith Agricultural Chemical Company.

CASH REGISTERS

DAYTON.—General business has been wobbling, but is surely improving. That's a composite of opinion of heads of National Cash Register Company, which makes nine-tenths of the world's cash registers.

This company expects to keep its huge factory going full-blast this winter.

CHEAPER MEATS

CHICAGO. — Chicago packers' wholesale prices on meats and hides in many lines are lower than before the war. Beef is 47 per cent lower than a year ago.

Retail butchers thruout country is for cheaper cuts. Receipts of hogs at Chicago durig August were 17 per cent larger than August, 1920.

Hides moving slowly. Lard export business picks up. Meat and lard export to England falling off but orders from continental Europe show substantial gain.

GIVEN LIFE TERM

West Virginian Sentenced For Murder Third Time.

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. — (By United Press)— W. Holly Griffith, state prison convict, is now a "triple lifer."

Griffith, already convicted of two murders, was found guilty of murder in the first degree here today. When the jury recommended mercy, he was given a life sentence.

The convict was convicted of the murder of Ira Roush, a riverman at Antiquity, Ohio, January 13. He shot Roush, captured his motor boat and escaped down the river.

Griffith escaped from prison January 8, after killing a fellow convict, Henry Lewis, wounding another, and setting fire to a penitentiary building.

He was captured at Greenwood, S. C., and returned to Marshall-co, W. Va. where a jury found him guilty of murdering Lewis. On recommendation of mercy, because of a question as to his sanity, Griffith was sentenced for life.

ROAD HEADS HERE TO TALK HIGHWAYS WITH ENGINEER SCHUMAKER

CINCINNATI.—The largest criminal bond ever fixed in the local courts was announced by nIsolvency Court Judge Joseph B. Kelley, today. It was that of George Fisher of New York, alleged diamond thief. Fisher, unable to furnish the bond, was remanded to jail pending further hearing of his habeas corpus case next Friday.

Sollick was denied release on his habeas corpus suit after a hearing by Judge Robert Leblond in common pleas court here.

JOBLESS OF CITY CUT 8,000

the whole country to see clearly that the American railroads are on an eight-hour basis and American industry is on an eight hours basis while a good part of Europe is on a 12 and 14 hour basis and America cannot maintain its predominant position against world competition unless it has the highest efficiency in labor and the lowest costs in its marketing process.

* * *

These people of the middle west don't dodge confession of their own shortcomings. While they inveigh against marketing costs nationally they are studying ways and means of reducing costs of distribution locally. There was a general discussion as to prices wholesale and retail in Kansas City. Apparently they are going to acquaint the public regarding the present wastes. But they mean to get all the facts first and then make recommendations. They say workers are helpless unless assistance comes from other sources and that wages cannot be reduced to a sane level until rents and retail costs are brought down to a proper basis. The corner store must receive earnest attention. Today it levies an excessive toll not because the corner store man gets an excessive profit but because the system under which he operates is wasteful and there are too many stores and too much "overhead."

* * *

Armours' representative said his company sold bacon at 22 cents a pound for which small retailers charged their customers 60. It was the same with beef. The retail abomination was one of their greatest worries. So long as the people paid the ridiculous prices charged by small retailers he couldn't see any to correct the evil. It hurt the packing business, reduced its volume of business and visited hardship on the country. The packers had advertised their prices over and over again, but the mass of the public cling to the habit of buying from the dealer nearest to the home. The packer's business was restricted by these high retail prices. Prospects this fall looked better but today the whole packing industry was on a 60 per cent basis.

Mr. Jennings made a surprising statement as to the retail lumber trade here. Last year his business had been the largest in its history, but this year, after a poor start in the first six months, it promised to beat last year's record.

Department store trade is larger in volume and smaller in money than last year. W. S. Dickey, whose business in clay products is very large, said it was only on a 40 to 50 per cent basis now but had been noticeably better in the last 60 days and he believed it was going to have a slow and steady improvement.

* * *

So it went thru all the lines of business. Nearly everyone reported evidence of betterment. Some gentlemen declared conditions on the farm were better than generally supposed and they gave evidence to support their views.

The bankers had rather cheerful statements to make. The same condition as to savings deposits is evident here as elsewhere.

Industrially the proof of improvement is strong. The flour mills are working 24 hours a day, 7 days in the week. The American Sash & Door Co. has increased its force 120 men. A bag company has so much business it had to add 126 workers to its organization. Scores of small industrial establishments have found need of more and more labor.

The expansion of the flouring mill industry here is remarkable. The output of this year will be double that of 1920. July receipts of grain established a record for Kansas City. New industries are coming here. The Corn Products Co., is building a $7,000,000 plant and will employ 1,100 hands. The national cloak & Suit people have put in a branch here that employs 1,400 persons. Kansas City does a big oil business, mid-continent production thus far run 7 per cent greater than in 1920 altho the price is very much lower. Oil men declare they are making no money. Why they continue this remarkable is not understandable. It's easy and is not understandable. Its easy and costs little to stop the flow of oil. Of all the businesses of size in the Kansas City territory only one is flat. That is of minerals such as lead, zinc, etc. As to others, they are doing quite well generally speaking and show signs of doing better.

PLAN SOUGHT TO UPROOT HATE

Movement Launched in Tokio to Choke World Prejudice.

WOULD START IN SCHOOLS

Committee For Selection of Text Books Proposed.

TOKIO.—(By Associated Press). —Fomation of a committee which would submit school textbooks to a critical examination with a view to ooting out sources of international prejudice, ignorance and hatred, is recommended by a representative group of Japanese peace workers. This is the group that recently urged upon the Council of the League of Nations the convening of an international education council to promote true friendship between nations.

TWO INFLUENCES

"It is needless to point out," said the group in its proposal sent to Geneva, "that the object of the League of Nations is prevention of war, and that this object can possibly be attained only by the constant promotion of all the organized influences making for international justice.

"There are, broadly speaking, two such influences—economic and cultural. The one, the economic influence, has already begun to be enlisted for the purpose by such means as the International Labor Council.

"The other, the o ingrtaaionz F

"The other, the organization of cultural influences, is sadly neglected. No peace can last without cultural bases, without the rational coordination of the cultural heritage and outlook of each people with the rest—the coordination that will do away with ignorance and prejudices.

OLD PREJUDICE

"But as we look critically into the prevailing education in each nation we see all sorts of old prejudice still wittingly or unwittingly inculcated into innocent souls. The education of people, we dare say, is still predominantly influenced by national egoism. So long as this egoism is allowed to persist, all other efforts towards peace and understanding, we are afraid, will be of no permanent value.

"We cannot, therefore, too strongly insist that without an international organization of educational influences, which shall effectively counteract all the hidden forces tending toward imperialism and militarism, no League of Nations can possibly attain its object.

"It is from such consideration that we hereby humbly submit the proposal for an early convocation of an international education council."

START PLACER GOLD MINING IN OHIO CITY

CHILLOCOTHE, O., — William Smalley, of Bainbridge, and Thomas Goode, of Greenfield, have leased 150 acres of land in Bainbridge and purpose to begin placer mining there as soon as the necessary machinery can be installed.

The alleged discovery of the yellow metal was made while hunting Indian relics in the creek bed, which adjoins the land leased. Samples of the sand were assayed, and the report was so favorable that the men decided that mining could be done profitably.

CONSUMPTION DECREASES

LONDON — In his annual report the chief medical officer to the Ministry of Health states that consumption in England is declining by over twenty thousand cases during 1920, and that there were sixteen thousand fewer deaths from the disease.

The report adds, however, that it is still one of the greatest and most deadly enemies of the human race.

HORSE LEISURE ENDS

LOS ANGELES — The Board of Public Works has recommended that eighteen retired fire horses be put to work in the city engineering department. When motor-driven apparatus was installed at all of the local fire houses it had been planned to let the veteran horses spend the rest of their days in parks and on

"FOOTLOOSE" WHISKEY MAKES ITS APPEARANCE

FITZGERALD, Ga., — Moonshine whiskey, market easier; "Footloose" variety, 75c per pint. This is the latest quotation reported to Chief of Police Charles F. Dixon by George Jordan, a negro, who dropped a pint bottle of corn liquor. It was broken and spread olfactory evidence of the presence of the forbidden distillation, which was detected by the chief standing nearby. Stating he had paid seventy-five cents for the pint the darkey said:

"Yassuh," that's tol'able cheap but every thing else is comin' down an' I'spect liquor's gotta come down, too. Anyway dis is footloose liquor. Don't you know what footloose liquor is? It's de kin' what ain't bolted an' boun' wif de Gov'ment seal."

MANDATE ISLE IS LOOTED

Australians Accused of Bad Faith in New Guinea

LONDON — (By International New Service)—Australia, having received a League of Nations mandate for New Guinea, is now engaged in "looting" this former German territory, declares Henry Stead, an Australian writer and editor of Stead's Review. He makes wholesale charges of inefficiency in administration of the mandate and accuses the Australian government of ghastly mistakes.

"When Rabaul was occupied by Australian troops in 1914 the German Governor did not surrender unconditionally," writes Stead. "General Holmes, the Australian commander, undertook to send him and his officials back to Germany and to respect the property of private persons. The peace treaty, it is true, gives Australia the right to confiscate German property, but by so doing she is breaking the definite agreement she made with the Germans at the time the place was captured.

GERMANS ARE RUN OUT

"Not only has the private property belonging to Germans been expropriated, but many Germans who have spent from fifteen to twenty years in developing the copra industry are being cleared out. Despite the fact that the Exportation Board employes a great crowd of officials, in only one or two cases have any of the expropriated Germans been able to secure a statement concerning their estates. Yet it is a fact that three Australians are employed for every German employed before the board took over the German properties.

"The Germans are in a grievous condition. They cannot get any money from the German Government. It is therefore impossible for them to start life again anywhere else. This seems to be an entirely unnecessary refinement of cruelty, of which it safe to say the people of Australia are generally quite ignorant.

PLANTATIONS DETERIORATING

"The German plantations have been placed in temporary charge of returned soldiers, young men who have no knowledge of cocoanut growing and who have no experience whatever in handling natives. Is it any surprise to learn that these plantations, which everyone admits were models of efficiency and productivity under German control, are rapidly deteriorating?

MEXICAN GUM-SHOE MEN FORM UNION

MEXICO CITY — Disciples of Sherlock Holmes, Monsieur Lecoq and Old Sleuth are forming a union here.

The detectives think they should unite to keep salaries from dropping to the starvation point while they protect society from the unregenerate and have completed a preliminary organization, with Juan Manuel Cabrera as president. Senor Cabrera is said to be a solver of mysteries with considerable reputation in Mexico.

The Detectives' Union will keep out gum-shoe men who lack ideals and have a tendency to forget professional ethics.

Detectives of the police department, it is reported, will be included in the organization.

JOBLESS PARLEY OPENS SEPT. 26

Harding's Conference to Consist of 30 Men.

WASHINGTON—(By Associated Press)—The national unemployment conference will meet here next Monday at 10 o'clock, Secretary Hoover announced today.

The list of delegates, which has been practically agreed on, will be made public tonight. The conference, Hoover said, would consist of about 50 men selected as those who would be most helpful in solving the nation's unemployment problem and at the same time represent geographically the various sections of the country.

The conference on meeting Monday will organize itself, Mr. Hoover said, and then probably dissolve into a number of committees to handle the various matters to be considered. Sessions of the full conference will be public, he said, adding it was probable that hearings might be held by the various committees.

The economic advisory committee, of the commerce department, the secretary continued, has completed a working program, for the guidance of the conference in approaching the unemployment question and a vast amount of material and statistical data has been prepared for the use of the conferees.

Mr. Hoover did not indicate as yet the nature of the conferences beyond saying that an unemployment policy was contemplated which does not provide for a system of doles or charitable measures, but would be a practicable working program.

WOMAN BELIEVED BEHIND MURDER

Slaying of Harry Sinclair Traced to Jealousy.

MAY SOLVE THE MYSTERY

News in Brief Picked Up From Ohio Cities.

AKRON (By Associated Press) —The police investigation into the mystery surrounding the muredr of Harry Sinclair, Akron sportsman, shot to death eerly last Thursday in an automobile on the Akron-Cleveland road, turned today to a jealous woman theory. Detectives are about ready to discard revenge of jealousy on the part of a man as a cause for the murder.

If there is anything in the jealous woman theory, police point out, she had accomplices.

The two women and man with whom Sinclair was riding at the time of the murder, are positive, they say, that the shots were fired from a touring car filled with men. The touring car was without lights, however, and police believe there is a possibility that there was a woman among the passengers. The fatal bullet, they say, was fired from a small calibre automatic revolver, such as a woman might use.

The occupants of the Sinclair car, Mrs. Dolly Friddle, Miss Louise Friddle and Russell E. Smithers, reiterated today their belief that the shooting was done by a gang of Cleveland automobile bandits.

OBITUARY OF WILLIAM EARL SHEELY.

William Earl Sheely, son of William and Elizabeth Sheely, was born in Shelby county, Ohio, March 20th, 1870. He was one of five children. His father and one brother preceded him in death.

In the year 1890, he was united in marriage to Miss Lillian May Norton, and to this union were born two children, Mr. Paul Sheely and Mrs. Margeurite Daniels, of Lima, Ohio. Mrs. Sheely, in 1904 was called to her reward.

In the year 1905, Mr. Sheely was united in marriage to Mrs. Zeta Winget. For more than sixteen years, their wedded life has been one of constant companionship, as they mutually shared each others joys and sorrows.

Several months ago Mr. Sheely was taken seriously ill, and he realized that the brittle thread of life might soon be broken. Being partially restored to health, he was ever conscious that he needed that friend, who sticketh closer than a brother—That Friend of friends, whose fellowship makes all human relationships worth while; and whose spirit implanted in the human heart makes possible the highest attainment in human kindness. In conversation with one of his friends he expressed his faith in the Savior, and desired to be like Him.

He was honest, industrious, frugal, tenderhearted, kind to and considerate of others. Ever willing he was to confess a wrong and to make amends for it. Without ostentation, he lived a life of sincerity.

On the afternoon of September thirteenth, at the age of 51 years, 5 months and 25 days, Mr. Sheely was suddenly called into the never ending day.

For seventeen years Mr. Sheely was true and faithful member of No. 837, I. O. O. F.

He leaves to mourn his untimely departure, a wife, an aged mother, two children, three grand-children, one sister, two brothers, and a step-son, (Adren, whom he loved as his own), many other relatives, and a host of friends.

The many beautiful floral tributes the only silent symbols of the high esteem in which this kind neighbor and friend was held, by the entire community. He has gone to his reward, but he is not forgotten. He being dead, yet he liveth in the kind deeds done.

Some More Truths.

WOULD you use a steam shovel to move a pebble? Certainly not. Implements are built according to the work they have to do.

Would you use a grown-up's remedy for your baby's ills? Certainly not. Remedies are prepared according to the work THEY have to do.

All this is preliminary to reminding you that Fletcher's Castoria was sought out, found and is prepared solely as a remedy for Infants and Children. And let this be a warning against Substitutes, Counterfeits and the Just-as-good stuff that may be all right for you in all your strength, but dangerous for the little babe.

All the mother-love that lies within your heart cries out to you: Be true to Baby. And being true to Baby you will keep in the house remedies specially prepared for babies as you would a baby's food, hairbrush, toothbrush or sponge.

Children Cry For Fletcher's CASTORIA

Are You Prepared?

A doctor in the house all the time would be a good idea. Yet you can't afford to keep a doctor in the family to keep baby well or prevent sickness. But you can do almost the same thing by having at hand a bottle of Fletcher's Castoria, because it is a wonderful remedy for indigestion, colic, feverishness, fretfulness and all the other disorders that result from common ailments that babies have.

Fletcher's Castoria is perfectly safe to use. It is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. Children cry for Fletcher's Castoria, and mothers recommend it because they have found it a comfort to children and a mother's friend.

If you love your baby, you know how sweet it is to be able to help baby when trouble comes. You cannot always call upon a doctor. But doctors have nothing but good to say of Fletcher's Castoria, because they know that it can only do good — that it can't do any harm — and they wouldn't want you to use for baby a remedy that you would use for yourself.

THE CRUCIAL AGE

ROSCOE ARBUCKLE AT AGE OF 7

LOOK at the picture of this seven-year-old boy. Not a bad looking little chap. His hair is nicely parted. His necktie is in as neat a bow as the average boy will stand for. He has a clean face, a manly look, and clear eyes.

Those eyes are wide open, serious and inquisitive. For the boy has just reached the age where it is dawning on him that the world is huge, life mysterious and puzzling. The boy's eyes are beginning to notice that there are things beyond the yards and alleys in which he plays, that there is something beyond the horizon that will bear looking into.

This boy has reached the crucial age—seven.

PLAYING on his father's small farm in Kansas, this boy might have been pointed out by neighbors passing in a buggy: "See that little chap? His name's Roscoe Arbuckle. Poor parents, but good people. A bright chap. Mother wants him to be a minister. His father thinks he would make a fine country doctor."

Young Roscoe saw a circus, then a wandering minstrel show. That, he decided, is the life for me.

His parents died when he was young. At 14, he was out in the world, shifting for himself.

Possibly he's wishing now that he had followed his father's advice and studied medicine, or became a minister as his mother wished.

LOOK again at the picture of Roscoe Arbuckle, age seven. He was in the formative period then, clay that could be molded for good or bad—like millions of little chaps who now are seven and whose future is as much a veiled enigma as Arbuckle's was in his early youth.

You often wonder: What is the crucial age?

The crucial moment is not when the child is 15, but when it is 7. It is then that the child begins to need most the guiding hands of father and mother.

Those were treasures that were lost to Arbuckle in youth. Had the enviroment of home life continued with him until the crucial age of childhood had been safely passed, it is doubtful that he now would be facing trial in the Rappe case.

Others will disagree and talk of fate. But environment and the influence of a home are stronger than fate.

SEEING OPPORTUNITIES

ONE frequently hears the expression that "there are no longer any opportunities for making money on land investments."

That is not true. Many years ago, farsighted men saw possibilities in the future of Lima and they invested heavily in lands about the then village. Their wisdom was adequately proven. A tract of land which the war department purchased in Detroit 20 years ago for $17,276 was sold a few days ago for $254,100, a profit of $236,824.

There are many such records of transactions, in which the national government, the state and individuals have profited. The Detroit incident proves too that there are exceptions to the rule that the government was created to be skinned.

There are just as good opportunities for investment in Lima and vicinity as there were 20 or more, or less, years ago. The only difference now is that it requires more money to stage the deals. That values will increase is just as certain now as then.

BOBBED HAIR HITS TRUST

WHEN American girls adopted bobbed hair, they unconsciously struck with terrific force at the human hair trust. And those who profited from the sale of "extra" hair, probably did not realize that the new style would be something more lasting than a fad.

Bobbed hair, while becoming to many girls, adds nothing to the appearance of others. It is somewhat like a dress or a coat or a hat. An article of apparel of a particular kind of style may look positively fetching on one person and dowdy on another.

At any rate, instead of dying out as fads do, bobbed hair appears to have won its away into favor as one of the things that have come to stay. The temptation to clip off long tresses, in the interest of comfort and lessened time in looking after the proper care of the hair, is difficult to resist.

EXPORTS during August increased for the first time since last December, when steady decline got under way.

The gain, compared with July, was $54,000,000. Gain in tonnage or actual amounts exported was bigger than shown by money value, for export prices averaged lower.

Shrinkage of our foreign trade seems to be halted. That means, world is getting back on its feet, toward normal buying. Good news for the unemployed. More jobs are in sight.

JUST FOLKS—BY EDGAR A. GUEST

MAKING A MAN

I'm trying hard to make a certain fellow here behave,
I'm trying hard to teach him when it's proper to be grave,
I want to make of him, the sort of man I know
Who gets a welcome and a smile wherever he may go;
I want him to be straight and true, I want him to be strong,
A fine example for the boy who follows him along.

I've set myself a mighty task, this man I hope to change
Annoys me with his wilful way and all his manners strange;
His temper is a sudden thing and when he lets it fly
He's very likely to forget his boy is standing by,
And on such sad occasions I am always grieved to see
That he is not at all the man I've wanted him to be.

I try so hard to make him walk the broad and open way
And give so much of thought to him that when he goes astray
And does some petty selfish things—in pity more than blame—
I take him from the throng awhile and tell him of his shame.
Then for the boy who follows him, the two of us agree
That I will keep on trying hard to make a man of me.

PAINFUL BUSINESS

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

By PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

THE DAYS IN KANSAS CITY

Carefully very carefully, then, for the next six months Arline had woven her web around Ned. She had stopped at nothing in her desire to win him for her. The more she saw how attractive he was to other girls the more determined was she to bring him to the proposing point. For all her fidily spread nets Ned was extremely slow in biting. This worried her many a night, after she had retired to her room, and was pondering over his not having asked her to become his wife as yet.

There were several things that kept Ned from proposing to Arline, the most important being that he was not in love with her. He liked her and enjoyed her company, but then he enjoyed being with most of the healthy, attractive girls he had met since his arrival in Kansas City.

He had made up his mind to be very sure of himself before ever marrying. His mother and father having been a warning to him ever since he could remember. They had married in haste and repented at leisure. There had been nothing in common between them almost from the start, and he, their son, was going to profit by experience, if it were humanly possible.

In many ways Arline reminded him of his mother, and altho Ned loved his mother and had always been her right-hand man, he knew that he never would have been able to get along with her in any relationship other than mother and son. It had been hard enough at times doing even that, for Mrs. Randall was high spirited, exacting and domineering. She shunned the softer side of life and had never really loved her husband as Ned wished the girl he married to love him.

In spite of her many blandishments and her adopted attitude of clinging vine, Ned saw thru Arline much more than she ever dreamed possible. He admired her efficiency in making her own way and getting along by herself, but he often trembled at the mere thought of having to live with a nature like hers.

Sometimes Arline invited him to her cosy apartment, and made dinner for them there. These were the times that he enjoyed most, for here in her own domain she looked most appealing and played hostess in a way warming to Ned's heart.

She would cook an excellent dinner and serve it daintily, which was refreshing to the man grown weary of boarding house fare and service, as Arline well knew. The flowers were never lacking about the two little rooms. Arline was a good cook when she wished to be, and she did wish to be for this Prince Charming whom her heart was set on winning.

After dinner she would sing for him, simple little songs that she knew Ned liked. Maybe she would read to him in her soothing voice from some book of poems. Several times on these occasions Ned had caught himself wondering if after all Arline would not make him the finest wife in the world? But always some streak of prudence within him had kept him from making his thoughts known to her, even when she turned her most melting glances in his direction. This is what had piqued the girl most—his power to resist her.

HEALTH HINTS

By William Brady, M. D.

THE CANCER QUESTION

Several weeks ago some correspondent sent in a query about cancer—a skin cancer, if I recollect—and I answered in this column to the effect that if I were the victim I should have the cancer removed surgically and then have a series of X-ray treatments afterward to prevent recurrence.

This query and my reply brought a shower of letters from readers who desired to obtain the name and address of my correspondent in order that they might put him or her in touch with a sure cure for cancer. No one received the correspondent's name or address. No one ever has or ever will obtain from me the identity of any correspondent. I deem it a confidential matter when any one writes to me in my capacity as a health adviser, and I feel that it is my duty to preserve such confidence inviolate.

However, there i sone peculiarity about all these letters from persons who are so eager to put a stranger "in touch" with some mysterious or secret "cancer cure." The peculiarity is a striking one: Every letter is miserably sqrawled, distressingly misspelled, punctuated not at all—in short, the letters, come from persons who are obviously extremely ignorant. It is such people who believe, or pretend to believe they know of a sure cure for cancer. Gullible, credulous, simple-minded people who can least afford to be so pitifully misled. It is regretably true that there are still a number of conscienceless vultures purporting to have a "cancer cure," preying preying upon the most unfortunate of all invalids, encouraging them to postpone or avoid the very straw they should and must grasp at the outset if they are to be saved, wheedling out of them money which, very often, they can ill afford to spend, and subjecting them to tortures in the way of crude treatment compared with which surgery is a solacing thought. These "cancer specialists" do not rely upon former patients—I can't say cured patients, for there are none to be found alive long after the cancer quack gets thru with them. No! No quack does that, for the end would be inevitable failure by that system. He gets new victims by canvassing them and dangling great prospects before their eyes, and filling their credulous minds with horrible notions of surgery. Honest doctors the world over rely upon their former patients to recommend them to new ones—that is the way the reputable physician or specialist builds a practice.

It is true that now and then a surface or skin cancer is permanently cured by a phase of "healing oils"—but not without great risk of blood poisoning and great suffering, and often unnecessarily hideous scarring. Where one such cure occurs, a hundred cures are obtained by painless, safe surgery. Besides surgery, radium and X-ray treatment have proved great aids—but surgery is the only hope.

DOUBLE PROBE OF KU KLUX ON

Justice Department and Congress To Push Investigation.

EMPEROR MAY BY CALLED

Klan Now Claims Membership of 500,000.

BY NORRIS QUINN

WASHINGTON — (N. E. A. Service) — Federal authorities are going to fire two shots into the white-robed ranks of the Ku Klux Klan.

The first probably will be a thoro investigation of the order by the Department of Justice.

The second will be a Congressional inquiry.

William Joseph Simmons, known as emperor of the invisible Empire, may be summoned from his headquarters at Atlanta, to Washington to present his case.

The Postoffice Department is seeking to determine whether the Klan has violated postal regulations.

Heads of the American Federation of Labor are warning their thousands of adherents to steer clear of the Klan.

500,000 MEMBERS

The Klan claims a total membership of 500,000 and says it is calling 1000 fresh recruits to the colors every week.

Its officers say it is a fraternal patriotic organization based on the tradition of the Ku Klux Klan which flourished in the south during the reconstruction period following the Civil War.

They say it is dedicated to loyal Americanism, white supremacy and the protection of American womanhood.

But the opponents of the Klan declare that it is an anti-Negro, anti-Catholic, anti-Jewish, anti-alien body and that it plans by insidious propaganda to stir up racial and religious hatred and internal strife.

It is upon these charges that federal action will be based.

BURNS READY TO ACT

William J. Burns, chief of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, says he has not yet looked into the Klan's operations but will do so as soon as he is authorized by Attorney General Daugherty.

Daugherty is not now in Washington. Burns says it is probable he will order a probe immediately upon his return.

Representative Peter F. Tague of Massachusetts has drafted a resolution demanding an investigation of the Klan which he will present soon after Congress convenes.

PLANNING PROGRAM

Representative Leonidas M. Dyer of Missouri, member of the House Judiciary Committee, is studying statutes and precedents to determine what action Congress can take.

"It's probable that we'll pass a resolution empowering some committee or subcommittee to make an investigation," Dyer said. "That will enable the committee to subpena officers of the Klan and force them to appear at hearings here."

Representative Benjamin J. Fairchild of New York said:

"I don't know of any federal law under which we can prosecute. But it's possible that new federal legislation will be enacted to cover this particular case."

EX-WIFE OF THAW IS RESCUED

Saved by the Police From Would-be Kidnapers.

NEW YORK.—(By United Press.)—What may have been an attempt to kidnap Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, former wife of Harry K. Thaw, was frustrated today by police.

The former Mrs. Thaw, now known as Miss Nesbit, was in her apartments on the third floor of a building, where she runs a tea room, about 3:30 a. m., when she heard men talking in the hall outside, according to police. She opened the door and three men attempted to seize her. Miss Nesbit screamed "Fire." She kept screaming so loudly that the men fled.

Patrolman Michael McMahon heard the cries and ran up to the building just as the three men jumped into a taxi that was standing at the curb with its motor running, and drove rapidly away.

Miss Nesbit, then came downstairs and told the policeman what had happened. He decided to remain on guard. Sometime later, three men returned in the taxicab. McMahon accosted them and they attacked him. McMahon blew his whistle for help and other patrolmen arrived.

After a fight, the three men were arrested. They gave the names of Joseph Daley, John Wardmer and James Dunn.

Miss Nesbit came down and had a look at the prisoners. Police said she pointed out Daley as the man who first attempted to seize her.

Miss Nesbit said she would prosecute the men on a charge of disorderly conduct and would appear against them in court today.

REBELLION IN INDIA IS DECLARED SERIOUS

LONDON — Official investigations of conditions in India show that the situation is more serious than was at first believed. The military forces sent into the troubled district of the Malabar coast are experiencing difficulties owing to the mobility of the rebels and the nature of the country. Formidable bands of rebels are scattered thru the hills, which, for the most part, are covered with forests.

Two thousand rebels are said to be massed in the Pandalur hills, northeast of Calicut, where an action is imminent, and another band is endeavoring to join these rebels. Officials here hold that the insurgents can be starved out if the main roads are held and certain areas are garrisoned.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE THEFTS AT INFIRMARY

Complaints registered by L. C. Sigler, superintendent of the Allen-co infirmary, against men and boys whom, he charges, have perpetrated numerous small thefts at the infirmary farm, will be investigated by the Allen-co grand jury, which convenes next Monday.

"I am about tired of chasing them out of the melon patch, the fruit trees and off the infirmary farm," the superintendent said. "So I have decided the better way to do is to let the grand jury act."

Sigler declares that at no time since he has been superintendent has he been troubled with so many small thefts, such as have been perpetrated the past summer.

STRIKE AVERTED

Rail Men Decide to Await New Working Rules.

CHICAGO — (By United Press.) —Immediate danger of a railroad strike had been averted today.

In spite of the fact that shop employes of the road have voted overwhelmingly against acceptance of the 12 per cent slash in wages which became effective July 1, on order of the United States railroad labor board, the decision has been reached to hold up further action until the board announces the new working rules now being formulated.

B. M. Jewell, head of the railroad department of the American Federation of Labor, which includes the federated shop crafts, made this announcement at a mass meeting of rail employes here yesterday.

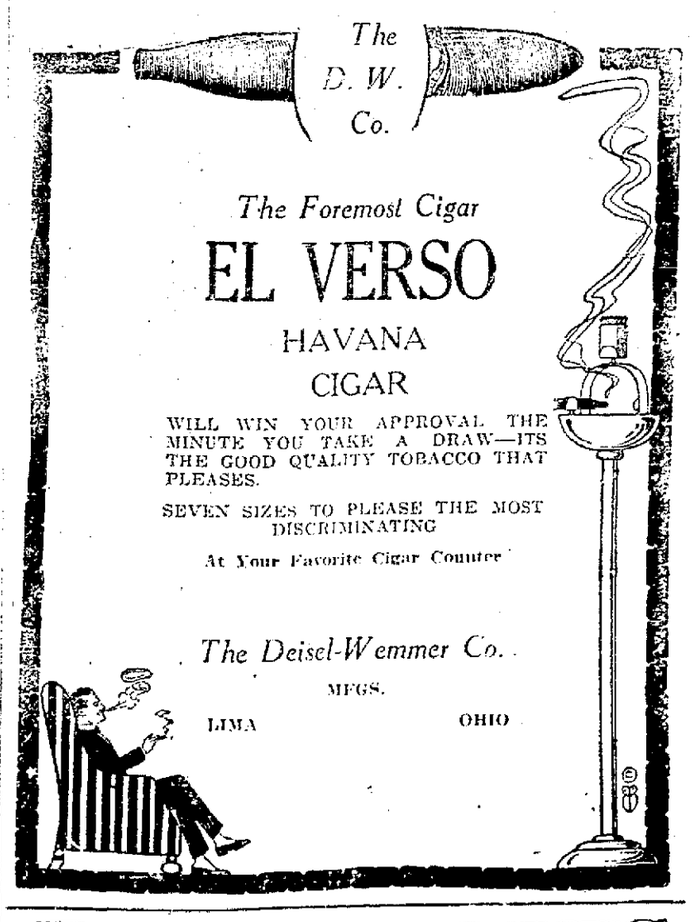

According to Jewell, another ballot will be taken when the rules are announced and if the membership votes against acceptance, then a fight will be waged before the railroad board. A strike will be called if necessary, Jewell stated.

INSPECTOR WAS WORRIED

Bought Medicines Constantly But Wife Failed To Improve.

"I wouldn't take all the money in the universe for the good Tanlac has done my wife," said John C. Goddard, of 533 Talbot Avenue, Akron, Ohio, inspector for the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co.

"For two years I was worried about her condition and also had to spend a large part of my salary each month on medicines and treatments none of which did her any good. I don't believe anybody ever had indigestion any worse than she did and at times she had such long smothering spells it looked like she would never get her breath again. She could hardly drag herself around the house and she was too weak to do housework.

"I certainly never got so much much good out of a little money as I did for what Tanlac cost me. It made her a well and happy woman and brought the sunshine back to our home. She has a wonderful appetite, has gained eleven pounds in weight and is the very picture of health."

Tanlac is sold in Lima by Hunter's Drug Stores and by the leading druggist in every town. Adv.

The Master Heater Moore's Airtight

Save $19 on Every $50 Coal Bill

WE claim by actual test, a saving of 38% over every other make of heater. What other stoves WASTE—in smoke—MOORE'S SAVE in getting HEAT Every particle of smoke is wasted fuel. The problem then is to make heat units by creating gases, rather than wasted smoke.

Perfect Combustion means NO SMOKE and All Powerful gas. That is what the MOORES AIR-TIGHT does with the coal. How? The secret is the patented SLOTTED FIRE-POT, which drives air into the fire-pot and converts coal into gases. Here is where you save the 38%. After all it is what you SAVE in economy NOT in the cheapness of the price of a heater.

THE MOORE'S AIR-TIGHT consists of TWO STOVES IN ONE. The inside stove is a massive cannon, absolutely air-tight; the outside stove is a beautiful rococo grill pattern, having a dead-air space between. A woman never has to polish this stove, because it never burns off the blacking; and, if a child falls against the stove, the OUTSIDE, being merely warm, never burns the child.

The stove lasts a LIFE-TIME; the fire pot lasts 14 years. Where can you find one-half the economy in any other stove? The price is as low as $52.00.

LONG SKIRT AGAIN HITS PARIS MODES

There are some few Paris designers who insist upon thrusting something different on the market. Whether they rely on their unusual styles to give them publicity or whether they really set styles is hard to determine, but at any rate there are always certain houses which are always doing everything the other houses are not These designers may thank their stars that the saying is true that "any style, no matter how terrible, freakish, ugly, bizarre or ordinary, will sell in Paris, for if Paris will not buy, England will, what England may leave America takes and then there is Latin America, the Philippines, China, Japan and all the rest of the world still to buy."

Several of these houses are now showing frocks and suits with long skirts Here is one recently imported silk frock showing a long, full skirt. It is pleasing enough, but surely lacks the dash and smartness of the short skirted models. It has not even the quaintness of the long ago, long, full skirts It is fashioned of navy blute taffeta embroidered in white circles and squares The bodice is plain and the sleeves are long and full

LETTERS TO LOVERS

Infatuated Seventeen And The Eloper

Winona Wilcox

"Seventeen" writes to me every day And always about "Him." She never has any other problem.

She has but one word to express her feelings for "Him." She is always frankly "infatuated."

When I find that word in a letter, I can guess correctly the age of the writer. And also the sex. For man, who wanders from one infatuation to another, never employs the exact word to describe his transient interests.

When "Seventeen" confesses that she is infatuated she means to describe Winona Wilcox the supreme emotion of a long life. She refers to a devotion which is immeasurable mystical, incomprehensible. And she positively loathes anybody who will dare to tell her that her favorite verb always implies a love which is temporary

"I am perfectly infatuated with a perfectly stunning young man. Please send me the name of a justice of the peace in Gretna Green," writes Seventeen. 'Answer by return mail. Stam inclosed"

Fortunately for her, the mail service is pretty slow. By the time her desired advice has arrived, Seventeen has become perfectly infatuated with another Prince Charming.

"Please tell me where we can get married without a license," asks a YOUNG GIRL. "We are going to elope!" she announces with naive confidence

It is the custom to smile over the young girl's first romance. And it is just as much the custom to hold her responsible for the mistakes she makes while under the "influence."

The custom is most unfair. It is as if one had trained a creature to do tricks only to punish it for obeying.

All her life the girl reads about love, plays it on her piano, sees it on the movie screen, hears it discussed in detail on the stage, is warned about it by the minister and is admonished by the doctor. And so she waits for the coming of the great adventure and is not too critical when it arrives

She welcomes love—not the lover One man will appear as perfect as another.

The reason why mothers and guardians need not worry is that infatuation perishes—if nobody takes notice.

Now those who have followed recent writers on love and life have discovered that while the need to love and to be loved haunts the race from the cradle to the grave, it still follows some general laws

Nature abhors any vacuum and she kills off the unfit.

Nature cannot tolerate the precocious for it is unfit And so first love, commonly called "puppy-love," may be trusted to evaporate unless it is nourished upon parental objection

$40,000 Spent In Insurance For New Play

Carl Laemmle's Get-together Party Indicates "Foolish Wives" Will Get By

LOS ANGELES.—(BY N. E. A. Service.)—Forty thousand dollars for censorship insurance!

This is the investment made by the Universal Film Co., largely to assure its two-million-dollar production, "Foolish Wives," against being slashed by state censors.

Director Erich von Stroheim at present is engaged in whipping the film into final form as a 12 reel feature

It had been cut down from 52,000 feet of film to 21 reels when Universal exhibited it to 14 censors from the United States and Canada, whom it invited to California for the purpose, and whose expenses it paid.

Representatives of Universal report the censors made few suggestions for cuts and praised the production. It is expected other censors will be influenced by their approval.

ROYALLY ENTERTAINED

The censors were royally entertained, conferred with Universal officials on censorship, and left behind them the impression that they were quite satisfied to pass the film when it should come before them for official review.

Carl Laemmle insists he played host to the censors merely so censors and producers could arrive at a better general understanding The censors made clear they too, regarded this as his purpose

Nevertheless censors who accepted his hospitality have laid themselves open to the criticism that they have, in a manner, obligated themselves to their host.

"Consider the plot of 'Foolish Wives' and you'll understand why Laemmle and Von Stroheim might have had some doubts as to what would happen when it reached the censors," say these critics.

SLURS VIRTUE

It's a story of a Russian count, a low-down libertine and scoundrel, who sets up an establishment with two women at Monte Carlo The count regards every woman as his prey.

Meeting the young wife of an American senator, he decides to make her his conquest and his whirlwind courtship turns her head Time after time he has her trapped, but some occurrence saves her.

Finally the count assaults the imbecile daughter of an Italian with whom he has been counterfeiting money. The Italian finds this out. The count is cast into a sewer, and after him—a dead cat Fade out

SEVEN-HOUR SHOWING

This highly elevating spectacle on which already $1,200,000 in cash and 18 months of labor by an army of people have been lavished, was reeled off before the censors in a seven-hour showing.

The picture will be released simultaneously in 35 cities in United States Laemmle expects to net a million dollars profit from the production

STARS IN "FOOLISH WIVES"

Erich von Stroheim is the "master mind" in the production of Universal's two-million dollar film. He wrote the scenario, directed the picture and enacted the star role He selected Miss du Pont, his co-star, from the extras who appeared on location to take part in the making of the picture.

WAXED FLOORS.

A properly cared for waxed floor improves with age, declares the bureau of standards. On the other hand, varnished floors when newly treated look well, but the finish deteriorates rapidly under heavy usage. The waxed floor is the much better finish for hardwood flooring, it is stated, whenever it is practicable to use it.

An excellent floor wax may be prepared in the household as follows:

Turpentine, one pint, beeswax, four ounces; ammonia water, three ounces, water, one pint.

Mix the beeswax and, turpentine and heat them by placing the vessel in hot water until the beeswax dissolves. Then remove, add the ammonia and water and stir vigorously until the mass becomes creamy. Be careful not to attempt heating the mixture over a direct flame; turpentine is very inflammable.

Floor wax should be applied in very thin coats and thoroly rubbed in with a heavy wax brush or a heavy block wrapped in burlap or carpet.

CIRCLET PUZZLES

Engaged Man in Quandary About Ring.

Three Boys Want to Go Walking with Girls.

Dear Miss Smart:

I AM engaged to be married and would like to ask your advice about an engagement ring. Would it be correct to get a ring of the classic design, or would it be better to get a solitaire? Which do you consider the most popular now?

PUZZLED

Engagement rings are simply a matter of choice and also depend upon the prospective groom's financial status. The solitaires have been in good taste for a number of years, but if your means permit, a diamond in the new settings of platinum (or green gold) is so much more popular now and is preferred by most engaged girls. Of course if the engagement ring is of platinum, the wedding ring should also be of platinum. Why not ask your fiancee which she prefers, as there are so many new designs being shown in jewelry stores for both engagement and wedding rings?

* * *

Dear Miss Smart:

Is it proper for girls to go walking with boys, if they are 14 and 15 years of age? Do you think it is proper for us to take several girl friends a class party?

THREE BOYS

Provided you do not do your walking late at night, it is proper to go with girl friends.

Yes, it is right that you should take girl friends to a class party and see that they get home safely.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart:

I am 11 years old, four feet, ten inches tall. How much should I weigh? What do you think of my writing?

You should weigh in the neighborhood of 100 or 105 pounds.

Your writing could be improved.

* * *

Dear Miss Smart:

We are two girls 15 years of age and are planning a trip to California this fall. We would like to know if you can find some work for us to do in the evenings, so we can save more money. Addressing envelopes or something like that, would help us.

TWIN SISTERS

I do not know of any place you can work in the evenings, but perhaps if you would see Mrs. Julia Simpson, of the girl's employment office, Y. W. C. A., she might have something in that line for night work.

A SCOUT FOR VIRGINIA

By HUGH PEINDEXTER

As I neared Salem my meditations were disquieting and yet highly pleasing. I was born on the Mattapony and left an orphan at an early age. I had gone to Williamsburg when turning sixteen, and soon learned to love and wear gold and silver buckles on a pewter income.

My true spending-pace was struck on my eighteenth birthday, and inside the year I had wasted my patrimony.

I woke up one morning to discover I had no money, no assets.

Among my first friends had been Ericus Dale and his daughter, Patricia. As was to be expected when an awkward boy meets a dainty and wonderful maid, I fell in love completely out of sight.

Three years of surveying, scouting and dispatch-bearing thru the trackless wilderness had aged me. And yet there had been no day during my absence that I did not think of Patricia, still idealizing her, and finding her fragrant memory an anodyne when suffering in the wilderness

The sun was casting its longest shadows as I inquired for the house and rode to it. I rapped on the door. At last I heard a slow, heavy step approaching from the cool twilight of the living-room.

"Aye? You have business with me, my man?" demanded Dale, staring into my face without appearing to recognize me. He had changed none that I could perceive. Short, square as tho chopped out of an oak log. His dark hair still kinked a bit and suggested a great virility. His thick lips were pursed as of old and the bushy brows projecting nearly an inch from the deep-set eyes, perhaps had a bit more gray in them than they showed three years back.

"Ericus Dale, you naturally have forgotten me," I began. "I am Basdel Morris. I knew you and your daughter three years ago in Williamsburg."

Oh, so you're young Morris, who made a fool of himself trying to be gentry. Sit down. Turned to forest-running, I should say." And he advanced to the edge of the veranda and seated himself. He had not bothered to shake hands.

"Carrying dispatches between Fort Pitt and Governor Dunmore just now. Surveying before that."

"Then, by Harry, sir! You could be in better business," he snapped. "What with Dunmore at the top, and thieving, land-grabbing settlers at the bottom, this country is going to the devil!

"The Indians don't want war. What they want is trade. I've lived among 'em. I know. It's Dunmore and the border scum who want war. They want to steal more land."

It was obvious I could not keep in his good books, even with Patricia as the incentive, without losing my self-respect. I told him:

"This country can never develop without settled homes. We're building rudely now, but a hundred years from now——"

"Yah!" And his disgust burst thru the thick lips in a deep howl. "Who of us will be alive a hundred years from now? Were we put on earth to slave and make fortunes for fools not yet born? You make me sick! I know the Indians. I can go into their towns now, be they Cherokee, Mingo, Shawnee or Delaware, and they'll welcome me as a brother. They know I'm their true friend. They want me to make a profit when I trade with them, so I'll come again with more rum and blankets and guns, and gay cloth for their women."

"You have the trader's point of view, and very naturally so," I said.

"Thank God, I ain't got the land-grabber's point of view! Nor the canting hypocrite's point of view! Nor a thick-headed forest-runner's point of view!" he loudly stormed, rising to end the discussion.

But I was not to be balked, and I reminded him:

"I called to pay my respects to Mistress Dale I hope I may have the pleasure"

"She's in the field back of the house. I'll call her," he grumbled. "I have a man in my kitchen, a white man, who has lived with the Indians ever since he was a boy. He agrees with me perfectly that trade is what the Indian wants; not settlers nor Bibles."

"Your guest would be John Ward" I exclaimed, remembering the governor's errand. "I was asked by Col. Lewis to find him and send him to Richfield. The colonel and Governor Dunmore wished to talk with him."

"Ho! Ho! That's the way the cat jumps, eh? Want to milk him for military information, eh? Well, I reckon I'll go along with him and see they don't play no tricks on him. Ward knows the Indians well enough to know I'm their friend. I'm going to carry a talk to Cornstalk and Black Hoof. If I can't stop this war I can fix it so's there'll never be any doubt who's to blame for it."

"I tell you, Dale, that no white men, except it be Ward or Travenor Ross and others like them, are safe for a minute with Logan's Cayugas, Cornstalk's Shawnees, Red Hawk's Delawares, or Chiyawee's Wyandots."

"You mean to tell me that after all my years of friendship with the Indians I won't be safe among them, or that any friends I take along won't be safe among them? I can send my girl alone into the Scioto villages, and once she gives belts from me she will be as safe as she would be in Williamsburg or Norfolk"

"Such talk is madness," I cried "The one message your cousin, Patrick Davis' wife, on Howard's Creek asked me to deliver to your daughter is for her not to cross the mountains until the Indian trouble is over."

"An old biddy whose husband is scared at every Indian he sees because he knows he's squatting on their lands. My cousin may not be safe on Howard's Creek, but my daughter would be. I'll say more; once the Indians know I am at Howard's Creek, they'll spare that settlement."

With a scowl he walked to the rear of the house and entered the kitchen. All the windows were open and his voice was deep and heavy I heard him say:

"Ward, I want you. We're going to have a talk with two white men, who don't understand Indians. Pat, that——young cub of a forest-running Morris is our front. Hankers to see you, I 'low."

My leather face was still on fire when I heard the soft swish of skirts. Then she stood before me, more beautiful than ever. I stuck out my hand and she placed her hand in it for a moment.

"Basdel, I would scarcely have known you. Taller and thinner And you're very dark."

"Wind and weather," I replied. "It was at Howard's Creek I learned you were here. I was very anxious to see you."

"Don't stand" And she seated herself and I took a chair opposite her. "So nice of you to have us in mind. It's some three years since you went away. Now tell me about yourself," she commanded.

There was not much to tell; surveying, scouting, dispatch-bearing. When I finished my brief recital, quite seriously she reminded me—

"But Basdel, your last words were to make a man of yourself."

In this one sentence she tagged my forest work as being valueless.

"I am self-dependent," I said. "I never was that in Williamsburg. I have risked much. I have done things that men on the frontier think well of. The carrying of dispatches between Fort Pitt and Botetourt county is considered to be rather important. I am proud of the work I have done."

This ended her softer mood.

"You do right to think well of your work," she sweetly agreed. "But there are men who also take pride in being leaders of affairs, of holding office and the like"

"—ld going into trade," I was rash enough to suggest.

With a stare that strongly reminded me of her father she slowly said:

"In trade? Why not? Trade is most honorable. The world is built up on trade. Men in trade usually have means. They have comfortable homes. They can give advantages to those dependent upon them. Trade? Why, the average woman would prefer a trader to a wanderer, who owns only his rifle and what game he shoots."

Three years' picture-painting was turning out to be dream-stuff. I tried to tell myself I was foolish to love one so much like Ericus Dale; but the lure was there and I could no more resist it than a bear can keep away from a honey-tree.

So instead of running away I remained and tried to give her a truthful picture of border conditions.

"It sounds very interesting," she said. "Father must take me over the mountains before we return to town."

"Do not ask him to do that," I cried. And I repeated the message sent by Mrs. Davis She smiled tolerantly and scoffed:

"Father's cousin sees danger where there isn't any. No Indian would ever bother me once he knew I was my father's daughter."

It would be folly to argue with her longer. I fished a pair of moccasins absurdly small, from the breast of my hunting shirt and placed them on the table.

"If you will forget these came from the forest and will let me leave them, I shall be pleased," I said. "If you don't care for them, just chuck them aside. I had to guess at the size."

"Oh, they are beautiful," she softly exclaimed, snatching them from the table. "Basdel, why not stay on this side of the mountains? You're a very clever young man if you would only give yourself a chance. Very soon you could go to the House of Burgesses. If you don't care to go into trade you could speculate in land. Father is against it, but if it will be done, you might as well do it as to leave the cream for others."

"Even if I wished to stay, I could not," I replied. "I have much to do over there. Unfinished work. I have promised Col. Lewis to carry dispatches when not scouting. If they can send some one to Fort Pitt in my place I shall serve as scout in the Clinch River valley. The people down there are badly upset."

"I wish my father could go there and make them see how silly they are,' she impatiently declared. "If they would only be friendly with the Indians! It is so simple——"

"I know a fellow about your age," I broke in. "The Indians killed his people on Keeney's Knob ten years ago and stole his little sister. He doesn't know whether she is dead or a captive. His folks were friendly. They were butchered after making a feast for Cornstalk and his warriors. There are many such cases It would do no good for your father to tell young Cousin, and others, who happened to survive, that they are silly."

We were interrupted by a colored woman bustling in with Col. Lewis' servant in tow. The man bowed profundly before Patsy and then informed me.

"Please, Massa Morris, de c'unnel 'mires fo' to see yo' at de house right erway. I 'spects it's business fo' de gun'ner. De c'unel mos' 'ticlar dat say he wants to see yo' to once. Yas, sah. Please, sah."

I dismissed him with a word of my immediate attendance on the colonel Then I gave my hand to Patsy and said:

"This ends it then. Patsy, my thoughts of you have helped me out of many tight places."

"If you'd only be sensible, Basdel, and stay back here where you belong. Just say the word and father will place you in his office. I'm sure of it."

"So am I sure of it, if you asked it No, Patsy, it can't be that way." I thank you. I may be an awful failure, but I can always fool myself with hoping for better things. If I was pushed into trade, that would end me."

"Of course you know your limitations better than I do," she coldly said. "Thanks for the pretty moccasins. I may have a chance to wear them soon."

"Do not wear them over the mountains," I begged. "You were never meant for the frontier. Good-by."

I had mounted my horse and was galloping back to Richfield almost before I had realized how definitely I had separated from her.

I reached Richfield early in the evening Governer Dunmore had retired against an early start for Williamsburg. It was Col Lewis' wish that I ride without delay to Charles Lewis' place at Staunton, something better than eighty miles, and confer with him over the situation on the frontier.

"My brother has recently received intelligences from Fort Pitt which state the Indians are anxious for peace," explained the colonel.

"A parcel of lies," I promptly denounced.

"So say I. But the written statements are very plausible. They have made an impression on Charles It is very important that he know the truth It will be much better for you to talk with him than for me to try and send him your statements in writing. Haste is necessary. Leave your horse and take one of mine."

"Have your man bring out the horse. I will start now."

PASTORS OF FOUR STATES UNITED IN THEIR PRAISE

Four Ministers, Though from Different Parts of the Country, Have the Same Attitude With Regard to Nerv-Worth. They Write Letters Recommending It, and These Letters Offer Indisputable Evedinece.

Nerv-Worth gives real results and is a real medicine It does not act as a mere stimulant, nor depends upon alcoholic stimulation to produce results The ministers whose letters are reproduced below have tested Nerv-Worth, and found that it is really a preparation of highest merit, and because they know that it gives results, and has real medicinal value, they recommend it to others Nothing could be more convincing than a group of statements from gentlemen of the cloth. Read what they say.

Rev. Mr. Tate, Pontiac Ave., Dayton, O.

"For five years I was in a very nervous condition," said Rev. Tate. "I couldn't find any relief, it seemed, until I took a bottle of Nerv-Worth. I didn't have any nerve force to digest my food, I could eat only a few things I was advised by my doctors not to eat any cold lunches, Gas would form on my stomach and cause terrible bloating, my blood was also in very bad condition and my circulation poor. My legs would get cold and numb, and my hands would also get the same way. I am now nervous no more, and I can eat anything any time. My stomach and digestion are in fine condition. I have no more bloating, my circulation is good and there is no numbness and cold feeling in my legs and hands I am feeling fine and have regained my health and vigor Nerv-Worth changed everything"

Rev. H. Malone, Meadville, Pa.

"I was in a terrible run-down condition, had no appetite, and couldn't sleep I was very nervous and my stomach was bad Gas would form and cause a fluttering of the heart In fact, I was almost all in After taking one bottle of Nerv-Worth, I felt a change, and after taking the second bottle, I can cheerfully say I feel fine. As to my appetite, I am almost ashamed to tell, but in fact I can eat anything and everything I am no longer bothered with fluttering of the heart I am thankful for Nerv-Worth for the benefits I have received from it"

Rev. John T. Hickman, Salem, W. Va.

Not for Women Only

To millions it is bringing whiter teeth

This new way of teeth-cleaning appeals to women. It brings them prettier teeth. But men also enjoy it, and children must use it to properly clean their teeth.

Millions now use it, largely by dental advice. The glistening teeth you see everywhere now show the results of its use.

Everyone needs it, as this simple test will show. See the results it brings in ten days and decide that for yourself.

You must fight film

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays.

The ordinary tooth paste does not effectively combat it. Your tooth brush has left much of it intact. And that clinging film may do a ceaseless damage.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Millions of germs breed in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Also of other serious troubles, local and internal.

Thus film causes most tooth troubles. And, despite the tooth brush, all those troubles have been constantly increasing Some have become so common as to be alarming.

Now ways to combat it

Dental science has for years sought ways to combat that film. The ways have now been found. Able authorities have amply proved their efficiency. Leading dentists everywhere now advise their daily use.

The methods are embodied in a scientific tooth paste. The name is Pepsodent. Its use is fast spreading the world over.

To let all know it quickly, a 10-Day Tube is being presented to anyone who asks. Thus thousands of new people daily are learning its delights.

Combines five effects

But Pepsodent does more than fight film. It fights the acid which is a great tooth destroyer.

Each use of Pepsodent multiplies the salivary flow. That is Nature's great tooth-protecting agent. It multiplies the starch digestant in the saliva. That is to digest the starch deposits which may otherwise remain and form acid.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer of the acids which attack the teeth.

It combats the film wherever it adheres. It leaves the teeth so highly polished that film cannot easily cling. Pepsin is also included.

See and feel it act

The results are not uncertain. You can see and feel them. Some are almost instant. A ten-day test is most convincing.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Watch the other good effects.

To millions this test has proved a revelation. It has shown them the way to prettier teeth, to cleaner, safer teeth. One does not return to the old ways when he sees what this new way does.

The delightful results

One conspicuous effect is to beautify the teeth. Another is a feeling of cleanliness. Men who smoke will see great changes. It is film that absorbs tobacco stains.

But it is most essential to the children. Young teeth are most subject to film and starch attacks. Dentists advise that children use Pepsodent daily from the time the first tooth appears. Under old methods, very few children escape some tooth destruction.

To all this test is important. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget to make it. Present it this week.

New York Jumps In Top Position By Beating Tigers

Third Baseman Mike McNally of the New York Americans and Pitcher Walter Johnson of Washington were largely responsible for the Yankees' place at the head of the tense American League race today, two points beyond Cleveland.

In the Yankees 4 to 2 victory over Detroit, McNally drove in one run with a single and scored another alone with a homer. With the score tied in the eighth inning he helped along the winning with a sacrifice.

Schang's double sent the score across the plate and Hoyt's single Cincinnati, had a big day with the bat. In the double victory his team added another. McNally also played errorless ball in the field. Only three hits were made by Cleveland off Johnson. Washington won 4 to 1.

Another third baseman, Groh of Cincinnati, had a big day with the bat. In the double victory his team scored over the Boston Braves, he hit safely five times in seven times at bat, his three hits in the first game giving him a perfect average while his double and triple in the second contest, averaged him .500.

Brooklyn suffered a double defeat at the hands of the Chicago Cubs, the first home Sunday games that club has won this season.

Motor's Hurler Wins a Double Header Sunday

CLEVELAND — By pitching the White Motors to victory in both games of a double-header against the Cincinnati Fenwick Club at Dunn Field Sunday, Doc Kuntz, the right-hander of the Whites, equalled a world's amateur record set by Pitcher Welch, of the Detroit Risdons, only a few weeks ago.

The scores of the games were 3 to 1 and 5 to 4. The Whites, who were defeated Saturday by the Fenwicks at Cincinnati, 6 to 1, had to win both games in order to stay in the national Class A championship running

Errors played a prominent part in the scoring of both games An inexcusable muff of an easy throw by First Baseman Sagers, of the Fenwicks, in the seventh innings of the nightcap allowed two runs, when the side should have retired on the play. This misplay cost the visitors the game, and with it their chance to stay in the national championship series. Twelve errors were made in the two games.

The big feature of the second game was the accuracy of Kuntz in beating Fenwick batters with the ball. He plastered four, and would have succeeded on several more occasions but for the Fenwick's cleverness in getting out of the way. Just to show that he could put the stuff on the ball as well as Kuntz, Pitcher Gentry chipped in with a pretty curve that socked Zledover in the bay window in the seventh.

Second Baseman Shock, of the Fenwicks, had an easy day of it until the sixth inning of the second game. He loafed thru one easy assist in the opener, and until the sixth of the second game had not had a chance. In the sixth, however, Leinweber and Brown hit fast ones at him in succession, and Kuntz opened the seventh with another roller to Shock. The tall boy handled them all with ease, erasing them at first.

Central Hi To Play Football Game Saturday

Coach Detrick has strenuous outdoor work planned for the men, and expects to have a team whipped into shape by Saturday that will give Lima pigskin fans an idea of what to expect from the uptown school this season.

Giants Safely Lead National League Teams

No one can blame the New York Giants for ordering world's series uniforms today.

The Giants practically have cinched the National League pennant.

Ten games remain in the New York schedule, and the Giants have a lead of four and one-half games. If the New Yorkers only split even, the Pirates will have to win 12 out of their 13 remaining games to cop the pennant.

MAKE QUICK RISE

The rise of the Giants in the last three weeks, has been almost as spectacular as the mid-season dash of the Boston Braves in 1914. Three weeks ago, the Giants, lagging behind by seven and one-half games, were counted out of the race.

The American League race is a question of a fight and the Cleveland Indians are known fighters. Only a never-die spirit has the Indians two points of first place.

The battle is so close that the coming series between the two contenders alone may decide the winner.

BETTY IS CHAMP

Miss Betty Brewster, of the Riverside Tennis Club, Toledo, won the woman's singles championship by defeating Miss Helen Perkins in straight sets at the Toledo Tennis Club courts here Sunday afternoon.

Lima Wins 10 Inning Ball Game

McClelland's timely hit in the tenth inning, scoring Arvay, featured the baseball game at Murphy-st ball park Sunday afternoon when the Lima Independents copped their first victory of the season over the Wapakoneta Reds, winning 1 to 0.

A crowd estimated at 2,000 persons, presenting the largest assemblage of fans this year, was on hand to see the game, which had in prospect the earmarks of being the same kind of a sensational encounter it turned out to be.

Only three hits off of Tewell, of the Reds, and Berry, of Lima, were allowed during the game.

The work of Berry won much favorable comment from the spectators. He is a Lima boy, but has been playing with the Hagerstown, Ind., club in the Blue Ridge league all season. Of 26 games he has pitched he has won 22, one of them being from the Athletics in an exhibition game.

Arvay, who played center field, was a new player to Lima fans, but he soon won favor for his brilliant fielding and batting. In the fourth inning he made a wonder running catch almost off the right center fence. He hails from the Telling Strollers at Cleveland.

Schelin, playing shortstop for the visitors, was the backbone of their team. His fielding was remarkable. Credit is due Tewell, who pitched a tight game.

The third and deciding game of a two-out-of-three series with Wapak will be played here October 9.

NOTES OF GAME

Yesterday's game registered the 24th played at the local lot this season The score book shows the home team has won 17, which gives the home lads a good percentage and something for St. Marys and Troy to think about the next few Sundays when they continue their elimination series for the championship of Northwestern Ohio, the title that is being contested between the Troy, Wapak, St. Marys and Lima teams.

Seward, regular first sacker of the home team, was absent from the line-up due to illness. Jack Malloy was shifted to first and played a brilliant game, handling fourteen chances without a slip. Malloy also pulled a clever bit of work in the tenth inning, crossing up the opposition by bunting the third strike ball and advancing Arvay to second base which allowed him to score the winning run on McClelland's single Arvay, who played center field for the local nine, figured in the sensational plays of the game, plus scoring the lone and winning run of the game the middle gardener made a wonderful running catch off the center field fence. Arvay is a member of the Telling Stroller team of Cleveland and regarded as one of the best semi-pro players in the sixth city. The home management, it is stated, will endeavor to have Arvay finish the season with Lima.

Earl Berry pitched the best ball game that has been hurled from the Murphy park mound this season, and gave the local bugs a look at the assortment of pitching wares that baffled the Philadelphia Athletics just the same as it set Wapak back yesterday. For seven innings, not a Red batter reached first from the delivery of the local lad which gives us some hopes that the old town may develop some one good enough to represent us in the major league

Two thousand fans witnessed the second of a three game struggle between the Reds and Lima in the elimination series for the championship of Northwestern Ohio; about seven hundred of the attendance were from Wapak. The third and deciding game of this series is scheduled for October 9th.

While the box score does not shout individual credit to Harry Clark, much of the credit belongs to the former Milwaukee star whose peppery disposition kept the home lads on their toes every minute of the ten inning battle. The signing of Clark to captain the home team for the remainder of the season has caused much favorable comment among the local bleacherites

Tewell, Schirm and Schelin, playing with the visitors, are all former Dayton Triangle players. Schelin, who hails from Cincinnati, made his first error in more than forty games when he fumbled Arvay's roller in yesterday's game.

Alexander, who was granted permission to come to Lima for yesterday's game, will report again for duty to the Toledo A. A club and will likely pitch either Tuesday or Wednesday's game for the Bresnahan tribe.

COME ON CARP

Georges Carpentier will come to the United States some time during December to start preparations for his light-heavyweight championship bout with Tom Gibbons of St. Paul, Gus Wilson, the Frenchman's trainer, announced Monday.

It is probable that Carpentier will again lease the residence at Manhasset, Long Island, for his training. He dislikes the idea of working in any gymnasium, Wilson said, and will be certain to work in a countryplace.

Mme. Carpentier and their daughter, Jacqueline, may accompany him.

Grid Teams Get Ready For Games

Football teams in all sections of the country will start another week at hard practice Monday in preparation for opening struggles, some of which will be played Saturday and others October 1.

In the middle west, coaches of western conference elevens have had only three days in which to get a line on their material. In some cases veterans will not report until Monday, when preparation will start in earnest. Teams which go into action early in the season in important battles must be developed quicker than those which open with worthy rivals a week or so later.

FANS TO SEE CHANGES

As the season advances, it is safe to state football fans will see an entirely new form of defensive play in the more important games. Defense in football is just as important as the offense. The best ground gaining plays are of no avail if the opposing teams cannot be stopped from scoring.

When Ohio State was defeated by California last season at Pasadena, the Buckeyes were helpless before the five man line defense evolved by Andy Smith, coach of the Golden State eleven. Every time Ohio opened up with anything which looked like a forward pass formation, the California ends dropped back from the scrimmage line three to five yards.

BACKS RETREAT STRATEGICALLY

As the flank men went back, the defensive half backs retreated, as did the defensive quarter back. The tackles moved out so that they played the double role of end and tackle. In this manner California covered the entire field and Ohio's passes were "smeared." Whenever Quarter Back Workmen did elect to send a play into the line from spread formations, the line closed like a vise and little ground was made. In most cases California palyed a roving or open center.

It was this style of defense which enabled Harvard successfully to combat Princeton's open attack last year. Coach Yost also used it in the game with Ohio State and had the Buckeyes' open game well served up until one long pass got away.

SIZE NOW REQUISITE FOR ENDS

Following the Ohio-California game, Coach Smith asserted the time is at hand when big ends are needed. He stated the five man line defense needs players who can dash in and spill interference if a run instead of a pass is attempted when the flank players are dropped back. Brick Muller, the great end of California, was a striking example of Smith's theory.

If coaches start to perfect the five man line defense, the offense will have to be altered accordingly. More plays with short passes—to enable a back to dart thru the line—must be evolved. There must be more variations to the spread formations, which generally indicate forward passing.

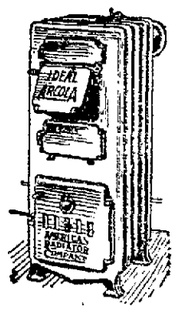

Just how successful this style of defense will be against teams which have players who can perform the triple role of pass, run, or kick remains to be seen. It may be that seven men will be stationed on the line of scrimmage when a player of exceptional ability is a member of the opposing team.

THESE MUST BE WATCHED

Players like Aubrey Devine of Iowa, Frank Steketee of Michigan and Capt. Guy Sundt of Wisconsin can run, kick, or pass, and they may play havoc with elevens which place only five men on the scrimmage line when open formations are called.

Coach McDevitt of Northwestern has a likely prospect in Chuck Palmer to perform in the triple role of kick, run, or pass. While Chuck is not a first rate punter, he could be used for surprise kicking and drives out of bounds when close to an opponent's goal. Coach Stagg at Chicago has two good candidates for the same sort of position in Romney and Cole. Both are strong kickers, fast afoot, and accurate passers.

SCREEN VAMPS YEARN FOR THE FRYING PAN!

(BY ESTHER WAGNER)

THE flourishing industry of motion picture agentry has at least one permanent rule of procedure—to-wit:

The beautiful vampire ladies with the shiny hair and luring eyes are always, in private life, quite saintly ladies who yearn for the joys of quiet domesticity, the hearthstone and the unromantic tasks of the kitchen sink. You may believe it. You may not. But here is a press agent who says it is ab-so-loot-ly true. He's the press agent for Marie Prevost.

Marie used to be a Sennett star. She's risen in the ranks, however, and is at present playing the lead in "Moonlight Follies," which plays in this city within a short time. She has the role of a vamp who almost marries a beautiful sissy boy who smokes Violet cigarettes, but who is rescued in time by the cavemanic Tony, who makes her give up vamping in favor of the frying pan.

That's the story, but in real life, Marie is said to be exactly like that. She is extremely domestic in her tastes and she longs for a home of her own and a family. To date, however, she hasn't found the right man—a man like Tony in her new picture.

This is what makes Miss Marie Prevost—the vamp in "Moonlight Follies"—decide in favor of the sort of domesticity she likes in private life, for the bacon you've cooked yourself always tastes better when eaten directly out of the frying pan!

"Jim the Penman," with Lionel Barrymore

"JIM THE PENMAN" may be described as a gripping melodrama, and those who like to be "gripped" should be in their element. Obviously, the thing that makes the picture as interesting as it undoubtedly is, is the fact that Lionel Barrymore plays the leading role and his acting makes the exciting events depicted seem so natural, that one never thinks of the improbability of such situations arising in real life until the thing is over.

Mr. Barrymore, in the role of James Ralston, is a forger. He has been born with an uncanny skill for writing signatures other than his own. He resorts to forgery—not to loot the bank, understand—but to gain a few more dances with the girl he loves. One success leads to another and he forges a check to save her father. Circumstances, however, bring him into the clutches of a gang of international crooks and it is up to Jim to either join the gang or join—a jail. He joins the gang.

He is kept busy in the forging industry and soon he has acquired a lot of filthy lucre. He wins the girl of his dreams and for twenty long years he is happy.

The gang grows too avaricious. Jim balks. They threaten exposure. Detectives are getting warm on the trail and his wife learns that it was a forgery which had separated her from her first lover. And if you think I'm going to tell you how Jim cleared himself, you're mistaken. No use in spoiling a perfectly good story for anyone. So—.

"Jim The Penman" is the kind of stuff Mr. Barrymore excels in. Vivid, unusual, but absorbing to the very end.

Orpheum Presents Billy Allen Comedy

DEVOTEES of the vaudeville stage, as a means of diversion, have a hundred per cent program in store for them this week, in the Billy Allen Musical Comedy Co., presentations. The initial offering, entitled "The Three Romeos" is a tuneful, beautifully staged affair, featuring some of the best dancing and singing ever brought here to the Orpheum.

One of the prettiest effects of the show is the "Butterfly Ballet" in which ten gorgeously costumed young ladies and little Miss Gladys Briggs appear. The lighting effects and colors are entrancing.

Mr. L. Warren Lawler renders charmingly "The Bells in the Lighthouse" which made an immense hit with audiences on Sunday. Then there are a series of living pictures far above the average, with "The Rosary" probably the best staged, accompanied by the song of the same name, as sung by Caro Barili.

There's a humorous situation to keep you amused; Billy Allen himself in a laughable role that offers him many hilarious moments; a few quartette numbers that go over splendidly; a chorus that, judging from others seen here, is better than the average, and unlike most chorusues, they can sing. Costumes and settings are of the best, and the dances given by Miss Gladys Briggs, an unusually talented child, are highly entertaining.

Really, there's no reason why you shouldn't see and enjoy The Billy Allen Musical Comedy Co. And they change program three times this week.

Viola Dana in "Home Stuff" at Sigma

FAR be it from us to speak slightingly of Viola Dana, for she is one of our favorites, but after seeing "Home Stuff" her current starring vehicle, we can only gulp and wish her better luck next time.

"What's the matter? Well, it being bound duty (?) of this department to tell what's the matter, or at least what we THINK is the matter—here's all about it.

To begin with, the story's a bromide. A barnstorming actress goes broke and ends up at a farm-house. She's hungry and Papa and Mamma farmer take her to their hearts. You see, she resembles so much a daughter of theirs tho had left home to go on the stage and had been disowned for so doing. And you can believe it or not, but the little visitor keeps mum regarding her former occupation. Of course she goes quite wild over the cows and the chickens; also the son of the house and is so, SO glad she has escaped the lure of the stage, etc.

Comes the daughter, humble and repenting. The farmer is about to send her on her way when the little visitor speaks up:

"If you don't take back your daughter, I'll marry your son and take him away from you, too!" So papa wavers. He doesn't like to see his son married to a perfect stranger.

Then the noble little visitor fixes everything by making a show of herself at a party — plays she is drunk and shimmies 'n everything—and with no one holding her back, goes away. In four years she's the "hardest woman on Broadway." But, her heart isn't in her work — "Broadway Rose, There's a Tear In Your Eyes" stuff. Now the climax. Along comes a playwright with a play. He is the farmer's son. Now YOU finish my tale of woe.

Well, Miss Dana's still pretty and she does as well as she can with the material handed her. Tom Gallery as the farmer boy is a good actor and will please many. And the sows and chickens are awfully natural!

At the Sigma theatre today and until Thursday.

You Like Tom Meighan, Don't You? We All Do

THOSE of you who like Thomas Meighan, and who doesn't, won't be disappointed in his picture "White and Unmarried." It's a pleasant little play, not exactly a comedy, but the impossible theme isn't to be taken at all seriously, as the lightly "kidding" sub-titles remind us.

Tom is seen as Billy Kane, a visitor in the very best homes — when the people who live in the best homes are absent. A windfall in the form of a million dollars, however, enables Billy to cut out the second-story work and he goes to Europe. On the way he meets Dorothy Welter, played by the cool and blase Grace Darmond. Well, they get along splendidly and see Paris together. Later, in the Den of the Blue Devils, Billy meets and falls in love with Andree, a flashing dancer. Andree has a jealous Apache lover, who bristles with anger at the affair and later steals Andree. Billy, however, comes to the rescue. And so on.

There are many deft touches that can be credited to the director, Tom orman. And once he was an actor! Of course, we don't know a thing about Paris, but the settings seem convincing and are extremely good. Sy- a Jacquelin Logan as the little dancer is splendid. She's just a new-comer but she's clever. And Tom Meighan as Billy is sure to please.

"White and Unmarried" is the feature at the Faurot today and until Thursday.

MOVIE SECRETS ARE REVEALED

Q. — How are fairies or devils made to dance on top of birthday cakes?

A. — Fairies or devils are made to dance on birthday cakes by means of mirrors. The dancers perform in front of a mirror the reflection from which is caught in another mirror far enough away to reduce the images to the desired size. The cake is so placed on a table that the dancing figures in the second mirror appear just over it. The camera man gets his focus and grinds away.

Q.—What titled English beauty is acting in the films in England?

A.—Lady Diana Manners, daughter of the Duke of Rutland, is taking a leading role in a play built around the reign of Charles II.

Q.—Wht screen star was voted by her associates in "Conflict" to be "as brave as a United States marine"?

A.—Priscilla Dean, after four gruelling weeks in British Columbia.

Q.—What well-known novelist has become as prolific a writer of scenarios as he is of novels?

A.—Rupert Hughes is turning out screen plays with as great rapidity as he has been accustomed to write best sellers.

Q.—Who is the screen's most polished villian?

A.—The honor is generally conferred on Lowell Sherman, but he objects to it. In real life he is a regular fellow.

When watching the films haven't you often wished they would hold a certain scene on the screen longer? Perhaps you wondered if it could be done.

Your very natural question we will answer in this department tomorrow.

Let No Corn Spoil an Hour

Any Corn Can Be Stopped Now, Any Moment, by a Touch

SCIENCE has solved the corn problem. One can now stop a corn ache instantly, and shortly remove the whole corn.

The method is gentle, scientific, sure. A famous chemist invented it. A surgical dressing house of world-wide fame produces it.

It is Blue-jay—the liquid or the plaster. A touch applies it. The pain stops at once. Soon the whole corn, however ancient, loosens and comes out.

It makes harsh treatments unnecessary. It makes paring ridiculous. It makes every corn ache a folly.

Your druggist has Blue-jay. Let it end your corn—tonight.

MOVIES and MORALS

WHAT OF GIRL STAR'S SOCIAL LIFE? MRS. CALHOUN EXPLAINS

MOVIES and morals are being discussed everywhere as a result of the Arbuckle case. What price must a girl pay for a movie career?" people ask. The question is answered in this series of articles written especially for the Lima Daily News by Mrs. Florence Calhoun, mother of Alice Calhoun, the Vitagraph star who in five years has risen from a $5-a-day extra to a $1000-a-week performer.

BY FLORENCE CALHOUN

Mother of Alice Calhoun, Vitagraph Star, the Youngest in the Movies

ALICE CALHOUN is still a minor, still a flapper, still at the period when most girls delight in school pals and friendships, when a "party" is the sole end of existence.

Mrs. Calhoun

It invariably shocks other school girls to learn that social pleasures are almost taboo for a young movie actress.

Not because she would not delight in them just like other girls, but because there can be no dances, clubs, sororities, bacon, bats for a girl Who must rise before 6 in the morning to start by 7 for a drive of 22 miles to the studio where she must make up and dress in costume and be ready to go on a set by 9 o'clock; and who finishes her day's work by 5 or 6 in the evening.

We are all made to be sociable and every movie maid must call upon her morale when she sacrifices the rightful pleasures of youth simply to sleep in order to be fit for the next day's routine of the studio.

And as soon as one serial is finished, there is the scenario for the next to be studied.

To endure the swift rush of events in the cinema country, one must have a sense of humor, and humor, they say, is one of the important morales for all humans.

There are a few artists who have gronched a lonely path through the jungle of movie difficulties, delays, harassments and embarrassments, but most of the so-called "fortunate" personages of movie-land have the spirit of fun in their hearts.

When things go wrong, they get a full portion of humor out of the situation. This has many rewards.

Probably we get out of life pretty much what we look for. But is it fair, or even sensible, to assume that the girl in the movies is different from the girl in any other employments?

We do not expect a school teacher to be eternally concerned with her heart affairs. Why should we suppose that a stenographer or movie star things of little else?

It was reported of a famous beauty, Mme. Recamier, that she "simply could not see sin anywhere." That particular characteristic is not impossible today, and doubtless it makes a dependable shield for any woman.

YOUTHS ARRESTED

CINCINNATI — Following discovery of several pieces of iron on rails of B & O. railroad track at North Vernon, near here, four youths were arrested on charge of attempting train wrecking. Police said they confessed today.

GURARANTY TRUST ABSORBS LOSS

Financial Centers Have Been Stirred To Repths.

ACTION AID TO NORMALCY

Sentiment Thruout Country Is Changing Daily.

(BY B. C. FORBES)

NEW YORK—(Special)—First, a word about a matter which has provided endless food for gossip in all financial centers of the country and has excited uneasiness in quarters where rumors were rife but knowledge of the facts totally lacking.

The straightforward meeting of this issue by the Guaranty Trust company directors at the end of last week should have a most wholesome effect and should set at rest, once and for all, the exaggerated rumors, fed by ignorance of the actual situation.

By taking care of all its losses to date and setting aside the large sum of more than $15,000,000 to provide against all possible further losses, and by reducing the dividend from a 20 per cent to a 12 per cent annual rate, the Guaranty Trust company has set its house entirely in order and is now in a position to take advantage of the improvement in general conditions which is now clearly within sight.

It is easy to criticize after the event. It should be recognized in all fairness, however, that no financial institution in America has done more during recent years for the development of America's agricultural and commercial resources and her foreign trade than the Guaranty Trust company.

I well recall being told, during the war, by one of America's foremost and most respected business leaders, that he was refused a certain perfectly legitimate credit by another very large banking institution, altho he had been doing business with it for years, but that he was accorded this accommodation by the Guaranty Trust company, who recognized the transaction as being like a safe, an ordinarily profitable, and a patriotic one.

In a thousand other ways the Guaranty Trust company has facilitated America's growth and progress domestically and internationally—often at times when other so-called "bankers" were afraid to exercise the function of bankers and were simply hoarding cash.

Having taken its medicine as most organizations have had to do since values collapsed at a rate without precedent in economic history, America's largest trust company is again in a position to go forward.

The recognition of this fact thruout the financial and business world will now be clear.

Not so long ago the hopeful note which has been consistently struck in this column during recent months was frequently ridiculed, when the view was expressed that the retrenchment, readjustment and deflation of former months were paving the way for healthier and better business during the second half of the year, the pessimists grinned cynically.

Well, things are changing. Or, rather, sentiment is changing.

The trend of events is following exactly the lines one bad every reason to expect.

* * *

It is some gratification to know that the facts and views recorded in this column have helped in some slight measure, at least, to revive courage and stimulate constructive action. From many, many letters received from business men acknowledging that the reading of this column has done something to stiffen their backbone, it may not be amiss to publish this one, from the Joseph Horne company, the well-known drygoods store in Pittsburg, since it is brief and records definite action:

"In line with your recent optimistic business editorials, 'Finance and Business,' the Joseph Horne company has decided to start at once upon the building of required additions to its store Building costs may be higher or lower in the near future, but the Joseph Horne company feels, in line with your suggestions, that busines needs the example at this time, and it has acted accordingly.

"Keep up the good work. Faith will move mountains."

* * *

So numerous are they, that one cannot even mention all the distinctly favorable developments of the current month. Among the more significant are these:

Our whole vast "cotton country" was in the doldrums last month. The sensational advance in the price of cotton has transformed the whole complexion of conditions thruout the South. Happily, cotton growers have been taking advantage quite freely of a twenty-cent market and have not again made the mistake of hoarding in the hope of obtaining some intoxicatingly high figure.

Bank reserves have reached the highest pinnacle in four years. Even crop moving demands have not checked the rising tide of surplus funds. Call money touched as low as 4 per cent in Wall Street last week and time money was in excessive supply at 5 1-2 per cent.

Meanwhile the gold inflow has passed the half billion mark for the year. All this indicates that very shortly bankers will be eager to find outlet for their funds—and now that optimism is reviving, there will now be awaiting capable borrowers anxious to extend their enterprises.

* * *

Farmers thruout the grain growing states have been marketing their crops in very large volume and at prices which are enabling them to get back on their feet. Improved conditions among this tremendously important section of our population are virtually assured. Pig iron production, a barometer regarded as of prime importance by many, is on the increase after the terrific slump.

* * *

The average price level continues to exhibit recovery. Of eighty commodities employed by Dun's forty-eight advanced last week.

The prompt marking up of cotton goods has caused many buyers who have been keeping their shelves bare to take their bearings afresh. When it sinks into the minds of buyers and of the public that cotton goods are being marked up, that certain woolen goods are rising, that higher prices are being named for some steel products, that copper has begun to move upwards, that wool is showing a firmer tone, that unemployment is decreasing, that foreign trade is expanding, that cheaper money and more of it is becoming available, and that pessimism is giving way to optimism in responsible financial and business circles, then we may see in various directions at least mild developments suggestive of what has occurred in cotton.

* * *

If the security markets are living up to their reputation of forecasting business and industrial events distinctly better times are coming. The advance in both bond and stock quotations has been very substantial, and those who watch dealings very closely declare that the Bulls have now gained the upper hand.

* * *

When the government asks for $600,000,00 and receives tenders of nearly $1,500,000,000, don't underrate the potency of an abundance of reasonably priced money to stimulate the expansion of trade and employment.

NEW YORK.—Heavy buying of United States Steel dominated the early trading on the stock exchange today. A block of 4,600 shares changed hands at a gain of 1 1-4 points. Further heavy accumulation soon extended steel's advance to almost two points. Crucible Steel, Mexican Petroleum, General Asphalt, Delaware Lackawanna and Western and Virginia Carolina Chemical were among the other strong stocks. Declines extending from a large fraction to one point from last week's final prices were made by Baldwin Locomotive, Railway Steel Spring, Gulf States Steel, Atlantic Guf and Royal Dutch.

Baldwin more than recovered its loss in the first hour. Lackawanna, Republic, Vanadium and Sloss Sheffield were added to the stronger steels. Tire shares were active and higher but motors and kindred issues made little headway. Tobacco Products, May Department Stores and some of the food specialities strenghtened. Food products, however, reacted to a new low record after its early rally of 1 1-2 points. There was little demand for rails, altho week-end advices pointed to more favorable transportation conditions. Call money opened at 5 per cent but fell to 4 1-2 on the very light demand.

Shorts gained the upper hand in today's stock market, extending their operations to every branch of the list and effecting substantial depreciation of prices. Sales approximated 550,000 shares.

The closing was weak.

CHICAGO.—Wheat took an upward swing in price today, helped by official announcement that exports of wheat and flour during August totalled 66,695,000 bushels. Unofficial estimates had been only slightly above 50,000,000 bushels. Bulls made much also of word that the government estimate of the Argentine exportable surplus had been reduced from 49,000,000 to 26,000,000 bushels. Opening quotations, which ranged from unchanged figures to 1 3-4c higher, with December $1.26 to 1.27 1-2 and May $1.30 to 1.30 1-2, were followed by a little reaction and then upturns higher than before.

Corn and oats were firmer with wheat. Corn after opening unchanged to 1-8 lower, including December at 52 3-8 to 52 1-2, declined a trifle more, and then scored general gains.

Oats started 1-4 off to 1-8 advance, December 38 1-4 to 38 3-8, and then hardened all a round.

Higher quotations on hogs tended to strengthen provisions.

The wheat market closed firm, 1 3-4 to 2 3-4 net higher with December 1.27 3-4 to 1.28 and May 1.31 1-2 to 1.32.

The corn close was firm, a shade to half cent higher with December 52 7-8 to 52 7-8 and 53.

FINES METED OUT

Quartette Look Too Fondly Upon The Flowing Bowl.

H. Murr, 37, Toledo, who told Judge Jackson he was trying to get home, was assisted to that extent by 30 days sentence to the Toledo workhouse, when brought before the court on an intoxication charge Monday.

Murr has been in court twice in one week for drunkenness and already owed the city one fine. He intended to go to Toledo Saturday, he stated, but missed the train.

"I will aid you to reach your destination," said Judge Jackson. "It will $25 and 30 days."

A similar decision was made in the case of Jim Brown, 40, of 128 E. North-st, a boilermaker. Fines of $15 for intoxications were assessed against Paul Emlick, 45, of 502 E. High-st and John Bartish, 38, W. First-st. Emlick ascribed his trouble to too much cider and Bartish stated that friends from Detroit had brought him two quarts of whiskey.

"Tell them to leave it at home the next time," said the court; "it's less expensive."

PLEADS NOT GUILTY

COLUMBUS.—Dwight L. Myers 19, of Findlay, who registered at Ohio State University last week, pleaded not guilty to a charge of grand larceny in court today. He was bound over to the grand jury under $500 bond. He was alleged to have stolen, $160 from Allen Ballantyne, of Perrysburg, his roommate.

MARKET IS STEADY; SPRINGERS ARE DOWN; BUTTER IN ADVANCE

Creamery butter advanced two cents in price per pound Monday and is now selling at 53 cents, against 51 cents a pound last week.

The produce market is very steady and is not ebiug subjected to the changes being experienced in the stock and grain markets.

Last week few articles were priced either higher or lower and the outlook Monday is that no changes of any consequence will occur this week.

Sale of spring chickens for frying was reported big Saturday and undoubtedly a large percentage of Lima people devoured fried chicks at their Sunday meals.

They are selling at around 18 cents per pound on foot and a three pounder is more in demand than those of the larger size.

DARING HOLDING AT DILLMAN HOME

Women. Menaced by Shotgun, Runs From House.

A daring holdup was perpetrated at the home of Henry Dillman, three miles west of Lima, off the Elm-st road, Monday morning, when a young man 18 or 10 years of age, entered the home and leveled a shot-gun upon Mrs. Dillman, the only person in the house at the time.

"I want your money or your life," the holdup told Mrs. Dillman.

Telling him she had no money in the house, she ran screaming from the house into the yard. She made her way quickly to the home of a neighbor, who called Sheriff Cahrles W. Baxter.

Mrs. Dillman told the officers that when the youth entered the house, another man, probably a little older, waited for him in a motor car in front of their home. The waiting man made no effort to interfere with Mrs. Dillman in her attempt to escape from the yard, she said.

Sheriff Baxter and Deputy Sheriff Dotson hurried to the Dillman home, but in a complete search were unable to locate trace of the robbers.

Examination by Mrs. Dillman of the contents of bureaus and rooms in the house following the arrival of the sheriff, revealed no loss of any description. It is believed that escape of Mrs. Dillman and the possibility of her spreading the news of entrance to the house, caused the robbers to desist in their efforts.

G. W. SCHULER MAY RESIGN COUNCIL

Member From Fifth Ward Expected to Locate in West.

George W. Schuler, 520 Holmes-ave, may be the third member of the Lima city council to seek rest from political activities in the far west. If so, his resignation will be the fifth from that body during the present administration.

Councilman Schuler declined to discuss his leaving council, Monday, but admitted that he had something of the sort in mind. His resignation, or a request for a leave of absence, may be brought before council Monday night.

His purpose in laving council, according to friends, is to accompany a brother to California, with a view to locating permanently in the Golden state.

Two other members of council, Harry Altschul and Thomas M. Berry, resigned to move out to the coast. Other resignations from council have been those of A. W. Tarvin, who was succeeded by Paul Landis, and W. R. Daniels, who was succeeded by O. A. Pugsley.

Schuler is councilman from the Fifth ward, and is employed at the Lima Locomotive Works. Other councilmen, it is said, urge that he take a leave of absence, rather than resign.

FINANCIAL GOSSIP.

Wheat advanced Monday on the enormous August exports of 57,000,000 bushels of wheat and flour. This big total hurled abroad may create congestion, but it has stirred up the wheat bulls.' The figures are vast.

Cedar Rapids, Ia., reports that rains will cause much corn to rot in the shock. The rain seems to be general over the state.

Huge exports of wheat may provide bulges over night.

Kansas City mills and shippers are taking a good deal of cash wheat as much as five cents over Saturday.

The immense clearings of wheat and flour for August resulted in rather general buying, but on the advance there was very heavy selling credited to a New York trader who was a free buyer a short while ago. This seling checks the advance, with corn and oats firm with wheat.

The Mexican situation was not so promising on the stock market Monday.

It is reported from good source that Pig Iron will advance $1 a ton late Monday.

The report of idle freight cars last week showed a further decrease of 17,312 cars.

"Ah was feelin bad, Jedge, and took a 'lil 'jake' fo' mah stomach," he told the court.

After one drink made him feel better, he took several other and woke up in jail Monday. He was fined $15.

TAX PROPOSALS BEFORE SENATE COMMITTEE TODAY

WASHINGTON — The senate finance committee had before it again today Senator Smoot's tax simplification bill, proposed as a substitute for the revised house measure. While the substitute with its manufacturers' sales tax proposal, had gained some support in the committee, Republican leaders said they did not think it would be accepted at this time.

Senator's Calder's proposal to tax all alcoholic liquors withdrawn from bond for other than manufacturing purposes also was to come before the committee again. Senator Calder said the committee had voted to accept the principle of his amendment but had asked that it be resubmitted in amended form for final action. It was thought that the original form might be construed to tax industrial alcohol.

SHORT SHAVINGS

"Know him? I should think I do!" replied Wilde. "In fact, I know him so well that I have not spoken to him for the past ten years."

"Yes, your honor. He caught me suddenly by the collar and threatened to strike me with his club unless I accompanied him to the station house."

Mrs. WAGNER of PALM BEACH

Tells Girls How She Found Relief From Pain

West Palm Beach, Fla.—"When I was 19 years old I was irregular and I had such terrible cramps it felt like a knife going through me. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I was cured. After I was married I had the same trouble caused by the added work of farming and heavy washings so I told my husband to get six bottles of the Vegetable Compound and by taking it regularly my troubles ceased and now I never have a pain or ache, and am regular. I recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and think every young girl should take it. You can publish this letter and it may be the means of helping some other girl or woman."—Mrs. MARY M. WAGNER, Box 759, West Palm Beach, Florida.

While no woman is entirely free from periodic suffering it does not seem to be the plan of nature that woman should suffer so severely and when pain exists something is wrong which should be set right. Every girl who suffers from monthly cramps should give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

The real reason for a pretty skin

Why is it that one girl has a fresh, smooth complexion and another a skin which is lifeless, dull and sallow? Is it a gift of Nature or some guarded beauty secret?

It is a secret, but an open one in which every woman may share. It consists in knowledge of the care which keeps the skin active—in the care which frees it from clogging, poisonous accumulations and puts each tiny pore and skin cell to work.

This care consists in scientific cleanliness—in the removal, every day, of all dirt, oil secretions, excess cold cream, powder and rouge.

This is the means

To do this, use mild soap and apply it with your two hands. Massage it thoroughly into your skin and remove with many warm rinsings.

Apply a touch of cold cream and if your skin is very dry rub in a little before washing.

This treatment makes your skin fresh as a rose, with the touch of rouge and a little powder—attractive embellishments but not necessities.

Choose the mildest soap

You must use mild soap for such beautifying cleansing and the mildest you can choose is Palmolive. It is blended from palm and olive oils which Cleopatra used in her elaborate toilet. These rare oils are the mildest cleansers Nature ever produced.

Their combination in Palmolive produces a profuse, creamy lather that is as smooth as a lotion. It penetrates every tiny pore and removes every trace of dirt, oil and cosmetics, leaving the skin wonderfully smooth.

If you want to keep your skin fresh and rosy begin their beautifying cleansing today. Then let your mirror tell you how well you succeed.

Cosmetic soap at 10 cents

The price of Palmolive will surprise you as much as its quality. You will wonder how such a luxurious facial soap can be offered for ten cents. This is the secret.

The demand for Palmolive keeps the factories working day and night. It necessitates the purchase of these rare oils in enormous quantities. Our production is on an efficiency basis.

All this reduces manufacturing costs and allows us to offer Palmolive at a popular price. It permits you to use it freely on the wash stand and for bathing—to enjoy the greatest modern luxury without thought of cost.
